DONORA GIRL SLAIN IN NEW YORK

Today

The Limited Finger. Souls Go Two by Two. Crime Costs Money. Why Buy An Automobile?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

NEW YORK will have a gigantic NRA parade, "bigger and better than the beer parade," probably 200,000 in line—a good idea, but parades, though beautiful, don't necessarily restore prosperity.

Louvois, French minister of war, studying a map with the great Turenne, put his finger on a place to cross a river. Turenne remarked, dryly:

"Your finger is not a bridge."

The confidential agent of Cardinal Richelieu, with his finger pointed on a map, to several cities that the cardinal expected Bernhard of Saxeweimar to capture. Louvois said:

"Cities are not taken with the finger."

Nevertheless, the great NRA parade will arouse enthusiasm, and that is what the country needs.

THE ELECTRIC chair sends souls on their long journey, by pairs. In Sing Sing, two Porto Ricans, Alexander Carrion and Frank Negron, twenty and eighteen years old, were conducted to death by the Rev. Father McCafrey, prison chaplain. One interrupted his prayers to say:

"Me innocent."

The other said nothing.

At about the same time, in Oklahoma, Claude Oliver, twenty-eight, and his nephew, George Oliver, eighteen, were killed for murdering Claude Oliver's young bride, to collect a $5,000 insurance policy.

HOW FAST and far, and how long must those souls, suddenly released, travel to reach the nearest place of reward or punishment?

The fixed star nearest us is distant twenty-five million miles, multiplied by one million. That is our NEAR neighbor. To get beyond the nearest of the "outside universes" those souls must travel a number of miles equal to the number of seconds in 300,000,000 years, multiplied by 186,000, or 300,000,000 "light years."

If they went as fast as radio, seven times around the earth in less than a second, their journey would last 300,000,000 years.

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL ON CRIME says that "every year, on the average," 12,000 persons are murdered in the United States, 3,000 are kidnaped, 100,000 assaulted, 50,000 robbed. Our murder "crop" has increased 350 per cent since 1890.

Also, 40,000 homes are burglarized, and more than $100,000,000 lost through incendiary fires yearly.

This we could stand. The American does not take crime seriously, and $100,000,000 is not such a large sum.

BUT WHEN told that crime costs the people of the United States thirteen thousand million dollars, the figures become important.

One year's crime bill would pay Europe's ten billion debt, with three thousand million dollars left over. The cost of one year's crime wave would amount to far more money than the government has EVER spent for national improvements since Hancock signed the Declaration of Independence.

ROY W. DAVIS, lawyer, of Marion, North Carolina, says:

"I read your daily article in the Charlotte Observer. Please publish your reasons for saying that any intelligent man who can, should get an automobile?"

This is one answer. There are a thousand others, better.

If you were a bird without wings, hopping along in the dust, and if you were an intelligent bird, you would get wings if you could.

What wings are to a bird an automobile is to a man. In addition, the automobile doubles the life of a man or woman, making it possible to do, see, and go, twice as much and as far.

AUGUST HECKSCHER, of New York, who has everybody's praise and good wishes, because he has done so much for poor children, is eighty-five years old today. His motto is:

"There is no old age if you have courage, since courage and youth are the same."

He adds, indifferently:

"I have just lost a third fortune, and must start to make another."

He will doubtless make it and spend it well. He possesses the courage that is youth.

IF YOU have read "Riders to the Sea," you know the old woman who, one by one, gathered up the dead bodies of her drowned sons. A sordid imitation of that tragedy appeared in New York, where Mrs. Rachel Marazzo screamed, in court:

"One, two, three, one by one they kill my sons."

Night before last another one, the third in her family, was killed. Larro, twenty years old. A machine gun in a passing automobile "drilled" Larro's body with seven slugs.

The mother, who has three sons left, says they, too, will be murdered. The police call it a "numbers racket."

THE OIL code, it is understood, will stop foolish waste and reckless, competitive price-cutting. Already, Standard and other companies are paying more per barrel for the oil they buy.

This is encouraging for gentlemen that buy and sell oil stock. However, they should remember that NRA will increase the annual operating cost of oil companies by about $300,000,000 and make competition difficult in foreign countries, where they have no NRA and such concerns as Shell, Royal Dutch and Anglo-Persian oil companies can pay men as little as they like.

MAN SEIZED AS KILLER IN DAWN ATTACK

Young Woman, Roused From Sleep, Dies Fighting Intruder

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Rose Grygill, 20, who came to New York four days ago from Donora, Pa., was shot to death early today.

The Broadway district was in an uproar as shots rang out in a furnished apartment at 163 West Forty-eighth street.

Jack Miller, 35, Brooklyn, wounded in the left hand, was arrested on a charge of shooting the girl and removed to a hospital as a prisoner.

The girl, a waitress, lived at the Forty-eighth street address with two other waitresses, Anna Perdok, of Donora, and Rose Manetta, of Twenty-seventh street, McKeesport. Both are 21.

Police said the Perdok and Manetta girls identified Miller as the man who shot Miss Grygill. They said a man companion of Miller escaped.

ROUSED FROM SLEEP

The three girls were asleep in their room on the second floor when at 6 a. m. there was a banging on the door which awakened all three. One called out, asking who was there. A man shouted:

"Open up the door and let us in and you'll find out."

Frightened, the three arose and the Grygill girl went to the door and started to fix a protective chain, but opened the door before the chain was in place. A man, the two surviving women told police, thrust his foot in the door and they said they could see another man at the door with a pistol in his hand.

As the Grygill girl struggled to close the door the other girls, clad only in nightgowns, fled through a window down the fire escape to a courtyard and then ran screaming to the street, where a taxicab driver called a policeman for them.

SHOT DURING STRUGGLE

Meanwhile, as police later reconstructed the crime, the Grygill girl struggled to close the door and a pistol was discharged, the bullet striking her in the neck. She continued the struggle and another shot was discharged, striking one of the men in the hand and lodging in the door frame. The men fled.

The girl, a trail of blood indicated, staggered up the stairs and after taking the receiver off the telephone, died.

Policemen called by the taxi driver saw two men running from the building and captured one of them, who identified himself as Miller.

The surviving women said they never had seen Miller or the man with him before and could not explain why the two men attempted to enter their room.

Duel in Cafe Fatal To Girl at Breakfast

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Caught in a revolver duel between a robber and a restaurant proprietor, Miss Florence Quinn, 22, was shot to death today while eating breakfast in a cafe just north of the Loop.

A single bullet out of several fired by each man pierced the girl's temple and killed her.

STATE DOCTORS FAVOR LAMSON

Universal Service.

COURTHOUSE, SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 26.—By the testimony of the state's own medical witnesses, the foundation of the Lamson defense has been laid on with startling suddenness and with obvious shock to the prosecution.

Dr. Milton Saier and Dr. Blake Wilbur, called as prosecution witnesses, yesterday testified that Allene Lamson might have met death through an accidental fall from her bathtub, a fall that would have caused her head to strike against a washbasin with sufficient force to cause the terrible wounds that killed her.

Both declared the pipe found in Lamson's backyard bonfire might also have caused the fatal wounds, but they gave equal weight to the fall theory. Dr. Wilbur emphasized that only an extremely strong man, swinging with tremendous force, could have crushed Mrs. Lamson's skull with that pipe.

The defense decided to make its strongest stand on the theory of an accidental fall.

The trial was adjourned until Monday.

Park's County Auto Damaged in Crash

A county-owned automobile, assigned to District Attorney Andrew T. Park, was badly damaged early today in a collision in Saw Mill Run boulevard.

The machine was parked at Bakey Garage and was struck by a car driven by M. L. Millstead, 50, of 442 Ariston avenue, Carrick, according to police. Millstead was taken into custody by county detectives.

INSULL HELD ON NEW U. S. DEMAND

Begins Second Fight Against Extradition To America

International News Service.

ATHENS, Aug. 26.—Fighting to prevent his extradition to the United States, Samuel Insull was formally re-arrested on orders of the Greek government today.

The former Chicago utilities czar was taken into custody as request of the American legation, which demanded his re-arrest and extradition to face a new federal indictment charging violation of the Federal Bankruptcy Act in connection with the collapse of his utilities empire.

A short time after he was notified by International News Service that his arrest was only a matter of minutes, Insull was escorted from his hotel to the offices of the Athens Surete (secret police).

Upon his arrival there his formal arrest was officially announced.

Despite the new move to force him to face his accusers, Insull remained confident he would be able to beat the renewed extradition proceeding, just as he defeated the last one when under indictment on charges of larceny and embezzlement.

His arrest was effected on a United States "note verbale" asking his detention on a charge of "fraudulent bankruptcy," as provided in Article 25 of the Greek extradition treaty with the United States.

PLEAD FAILING HEALTH

Insull's lawyers, M. Lazarinos and Christo Ladas, immediately began steps aimed at obtaining Insull's removal to a clinic on grounds his health was failing.

Contrary to his attitude when he was previously arrested, Insull showed little nervousness. His fighting spirit was aroused and his determination to spike attempts to force him back to the United States remained unshaken.

His attitude was that of a man who said to himself:

"I beat them once and I can do it again."

Even before his arrest, when the International News Service correspondent visited the ex-millionaire in his hotel room, Insull showed few signs of worry.

SAYS HE'S 'BROKE'

He worked busily and steadily, writing letters and doing other business in anticipation that his freedom would shortly be curtailed. And when told that his arrest was only a few minutes off, he immediately picked up a telephone and got in touch with his attorneys.

Although he has been reduced to near poverty since his dramatic flight from America, in which he led his pursuers a wild chase across Europe to Athens, Insull appeared confident he would have ample support in his legal battle.

Only a few weeks ago, however, he said he had scarcely enough money to buy postage stamps for his correspondence.

Arrival here of Forest A. Harness, of the United States attorney general's office, first revealed the new extradition move.

KERR BURIED IN SECRET RITES

Widow and Mother See Poison Druggist In Johnstown Grave

An unmarked grave in Johnstown today held the body of Edward Vernon Kerr, mad druggist who poisoned two young New Kensington mothers and himself.

Secretly and unattended by relatives, the body was shipped from a North Side mortuary last night to this city—Kerr's boyhood home. A little clump of people surrounded the freshly opened grave in Grandview Cemetery, Johnstown. And the eerie light of near-darkness that followed a cloudy day silhouetted them as the body was lowered after a brief service.

Margaret Jewell Kerr, his widow; Mrs. E. J. Bennett, his mother, and Mrs. Ella Weidel, his grandmother, was there.

BLAME INSANITY

Shortly after, Kerr's mother and grandmother issued a joint statement in which they attributed the poisoning of the women and his suicide to "an unbalanced mind, caused by business worries." There were those who believed, however, the cause to lie in a frustrated love.

Kerr was found with Mrs. Ella Gradler in his automobile last Wednesday near Sandy Creek, both dead from a powerful poison.

A third victim, Mrs. Dorothy Yunker, succumbed to a "sleeping powder" capsule in her New Kensington home. It was given her by Kerr before his death ride with Mrs. Gradler.

VICTIMS' RITES

The funeral of Mrs. Dorothy Yunker, mother of three, is slated for 2 o'clock this afternoon, with services in the Methodist Epis-

LIBBY HOLMAN REYNOLDS . . . RETURNING TO THE STAGE?

NRA READY TO WRITE CHARTER

Progress Reported In Attempt to Reach Accord

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Work on the complicated problem of swinging the bituminous coal industry into the recovery program went forward today in the face of a warning from Hugh S. Johnson that he will write a code if joint efforts of miners and operators fail.

Progress was the report from conferring disputants. Johnson himself echoed that sentiment.

President Roosevelt, after talking with Johnson by long distance telephone, said at Hyde Park he was confident a code would be submitted to him by next Tuesday.

UNION DIFFERENCES

Differences between the so-called non-union operators whose fields reach from Pennsylvania to Tennessee and the United Mine Workers of America have been the chief stumbling block in the way of final adoption of a code.

The operators wanted the iron-bound open shop specified in the agreement. They asked a $3.84 a day wage with a 40-cent differential for the South and a 40-hour week.

Mine workers proposed a $5 a day wage with a 25-cent differential for the South and a 30-hour week.

Somewhere between those proposals a compromise is sought. Unless it is forthcoming, Johnson is going to write the industry's code himself.

Johnson said a compromise would bring the code problem practically to an end. He believed an agreement on differing proposals from outlying fields could be settled speedily.

PROGRESS REPORTED

Four union leaders and four operators toiled in shirt sleeves throughout yesterday in their drive to reach common ground on wages, wage differentials and maximum working hours, three of the most disputed points.

They refused to disclose just what they had accomplished. They said they had "made progress." Johnson said:

"It looks good. The miners and operators are continuing their negotiations. They'll last until they reach an agreement or disagreement. If they don't agree, I'm impose a code. We're not going to have an interminable conference. It doesn't look interminable now."

Johnson confirmed reports the administration planned establishment of a comprehensive labor arbitration system for the industry. Demands for arbitration and the terms of the code, he said, likely would be too great for their disposal by the National Labor Board.

It was understood the arbitration system would be set up along the lines of the administrative districts for the code. Mine committees would have original jurisdiction. Decisions could be appealed from those committees to district boards—the nation would be divided into five districts—and from the district boards to a national board of three.

COHAN TO STAR IN O'NEILL PLAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—George M. Cohan, king of Broadway playwrights a decade ago, was signed yesterday to act the leading role in the newest drama by Eugene O'Neill, the man who succeeded him on that throne.

Cohan accepted a Theater Guild contract to play the principal part in "Ah, Wilderness," the play which O'Neill has been writing the past year on his estate at Sea Island, Ga. Rehearsals begin next Monday, with the opening scheduled for Pittsburgh on September 25 and a Broadway premiere on October 2.

For years O'Neill has tried to persuade Cohan to act in one of his plays. In 1927 he almost persuaded Broadway's dapper "song and dance man" to play the part of Marco Polo in his "Marco Millions," a part later played by Alfred Lunt.

Lindberghs Leave Shetland Islands

LERWICK, Shetland Islands, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from here at 12:20 p. m. (7:20 a. m. eastern daylight time) to continue their survey of North Atlantic aerial routes.

That their destination was Copenhagen became more evident when their radio was heard at the Blaavand Wireless Station on the west coast of Jutland some time after their departure from Lerwick.

Singer Will Make Comeback Delayed By Gun Tragedy

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Libby Holman, who brought the torch song to Broadway, is considering a return to the stage this fall, it is authoritatively learned.

The langourous singer of lovers' laments, whose slow, throaty voice exalted her to the topmost pinnacle of Broadway fame and then plunged her into a tragic melodrama climaxed last fall when she was cleared of all suspicion in the mysterious shooting of her boy-millionaire husband, Zachary Smith Reynolds, has remained in seclusion since the birth of her posthumous son last January.

The triumphant return which Libby was planning when a bullet crashed through her young husband's brain at their spacious Winston-Salem estate, Reynolda, more than a year ago, was then indefinitely postponed.

Tragic events of the succeeding months, when the magnetic Libby, indicted for the murder of her husband, awaited the birth of young Reynolds' son, drove all thoughts of the stage from her mind.

Then, after the indictment was dismissed, came the long, agonizing months in a Philadelphia hospital, when medical science fought with every modern weapon at its command for the life of the "twenty-million-dollar baby," who weighed only 2 pounds 7½ ounces at the time of his premature birth.

That battle won, her baby at last healthy and normal, Libby went to the 12-room cottage she leased at Watch Hill, R. I., where she is now devoting her entire time to care of the child and turning a not-so-deaf ear to the pleas of Broadway managers that she return to the stage.

TEXAS VOTING ON REPEAL

BULLETIN.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Nine precincts here, the first in Texas to report in today's repeal election, unofficially showed 181 for repeal and 15 against.

International News Service.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 26.—A light vote was anticipated today as Texans went to the polls to vote on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

Little doubt was expressed that Texas will be the twenty-third state to fall in line for repeal. Dry leaders conceded as much, predicting a 2-to-1 victory for the wets. Wets claim they will carry the Lone Star State by at least 3 to 1.

Former Gov. Jim Ferguson, stumping the state for repeal and for the amendment to the state constitution legalizing the sale of 3.2 per cent beer, which will also be voted on tomorrow, in a speech at Austin last night declared that he "would be surprised if more than 500,000 votes are cast in the state."

New Tangle in Loves Of Athlete's Accuser

Universal Service.

COOPERSTOWN, N. D., Aug. 25.—A new suitor was revealed in the tangled romantic life of Miss Eugenia Rose, Evanston nurse who brought charges of attack against Cecil Smith, dashing Texas polo ace, as the case was dismissed today by Magistrate W. R. Brightmire when the pretty nurse failed to appear in Evanston, Ill., court.

Friends in the old home town here said it is understood Miss Rose is engaged to Dr. Clarence Burr, instructor in the school of dentistry at Northwestern University, Chicago.

Previously it had been reported that Miss Rose was the fiancee of Dr. Guy M. Baker, Chicago optometrist.

Miss Rose, who disappeared from Chicago after filing charges of attack against the polo player, was reported to be on her way to Cooperstown, with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Rose.

Friends here said that the pretty nurse had been courted for three years by Dr. Burr, who is about 18 years older than Miss Rose.

She was highly popular in school and had many suitors.

'Corpse' on Promenade As Police Drag River

McKeesport Police Chief John J. Whalen is hot under the collar because he found a man to be alive that he thought was dead.

Whalen's men spent the night dragging the Monongahela River for the body of Dexter (Jack) Armstrong, 39, of 218 West Fifth avenue. A note signed "Jack A." with a coat thought to be Armstrong's, was found on Duquesne-Riverton Bridge about 9 o'clock last night. All indications pointed to a premeditated dip into the river.

This morning, Jess Naugle, of 1722 Lincoln way, Versailles Township, reported to Whalen that he talked with Armstrong at 8 o'clock today, not in the river but at the corner of Fifth avenue and White street, McKeesport.

Whalen sent Detective William Krieling to Armstrong's house, with intentions of "disorderly conduct charges" and "jail" in his heart. The letter signed "Jack A" had criticized the welfare authorities for the little his family of four children got, and bewailed his inability to get a job.

NRA ESTIMATES MILLION RE-EMPLOYED UNDER BLUE EAGLE

FIRMS SIGNING CODE NEAR 2 MILLION

Big Drive to Enlist All Business to Open Monday

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—More than 1,600,000 business firms have signed the President's blanket code, which calls for higher wages and shorter hours, it was estimated at the National Recovery Administration today.

With an official count of 1,545,000 firms three days ago, signatures to the blanket code, or President's re-employment agreement, were reported to be still coming in at the rate of 30,000 a day.

The big drive for the Recovery Administration will open on Monday and continue through Labor Day, with officials estimating that the 2,000,000 mark will be reached by the end of the drive.

Thomas C. Hammond, in charge of the signing of blanket codes, is confident that within 10 days 75 to 80 per cent of all business firms in the country will be operating under the Blue Eagle. The number of firms subject to the code is fixed by his aides at 2,500,000.

Some recovery officials claim at least 1,000,000 persons have already obtained jobs, some part time, through the operation of the blanket agreements. The real answer to the success of the campaign, in Johnson's opinion, will be disclosed in increasing payrolls and gain in business.

Under the President's order of July 20, steps will be taken to hold hearings on codes after the first of September if trade associations for all industries have not voluntarily submitted permanent codes by that time.

While the nation-wide intensive drive will end on Labor Day, the campaign to enlist firms under blanket codes will be continued unabated.

Labor Studies Auto Code Draft

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A final agreement on the automobile code was delayed until today to permit William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to give the draft a final scrutiny, according to recovery officials.

This was made known after Green, a member of the Labor Advisory Board, conferred with Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, regarding the latest proposal of the manufacturers code committee that language expressing the industry's views on labor be retained, but omitting the "open shop" phrase.

Green said he had asked that he be given opportunity to study a copy of the revised code along with other members of the advisory board. He added he was not prepared last night to say what attitude organized labor would take toward the amended proposal.

Master Code Sought For All Retailers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—NRA officials today were hopeful that all the nation's retailers, including druggists and representing 5,000,000 employes—the largest group in any industry—could be brought under one master code, with sufficient exceptions to appease individual groups.

This hope, as expressed by NRA officials came as a result of the retail drug code hearings yesterday, where it was found almost impossible to reconcile demands of druggists for special consideration with the code of other retail groups now nearing completion.

Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside has said the retail code, not now including the druggists, might be ready for permanent adoption late next week.

No pressure is to be brought on any retail group to force it to function under a master code, but, in NRA circles, it was said the logic of this situation indicated the need for agreement among all trade groups since most of them compete in one way or another with some other group, and should therefore be on an even basis of competition.

HOME GREETING FOR ROOSEVELT

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt took today off to mingle with his old friends and neighbors at a long-planned reception given by Dutchess County.

Before motoring the short distance to Poughkeepsie, to be welcomed by the people of his home county, he assured himself of a firm fiscal foundation for the government and inquired into the progress of the national recovery campaign. He regarded tidings from Washington as meaning fulfillment of the new industrial order by Labor Day.

Talks yesterday with Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin and Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, convinced the President that two billion dollars in financing for the government during the next six months could well be maintained with the administration's strict economy rule.

Douglas was given orders to keep the budget for the next fiscal year within the limit of the total expenditures for this year. In other words, there is going to be a near if not an exactly balanced budget.

Meanwhile, the Coroner's office here announced the result of chemical analysis of the capsules and powders which administered to the two women and Kerr, brought almost instantaneous death. They all contained the same poison, it was reported.

It was also developed that Kerr, whose body was found with Mrs. Gradler's in his car on a lonely road near Sandy Creek Wednesday morning, bought a can of the poison some time before June 1 from a Pittsburgh wholesale drug company, with which he dealt exclusively.

Company officials declared they did not know the exact date. They pointed out that the stuff was not used much in medicine, but is used by jewelers and others to clean silverware and metal goods.

BAR TO SELECT BENCH SLATE

The Allegheny County Bar Association will hold a referendum the week ending September 8, to select a judicial slate for the primary election, Attorney John G. Frazer, president of the bar, announced today. The decision to hold a referendum was reached at a meeting of the bar yesterday.

Some weeks ago Democratic attorneys selected a judicial slate for their party's ballot. The referendum of the entire bar is expected to differ considerably from this slate as a majority of the bar membership is Republican.

BANK PROBERS TO CALL 40

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The open grand jury investigation of Detroit's banking difficulties was in a week-end recess today while the officials studied the voluminous testimony of the past week and laid plans for the issuance of nearly 40 more subpenas.

Testimony from three vividly contrasting personalities—United States Senator James Couzens, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin and United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg—has featured the past five sessions.

Each gave his version of the chain of events which forced the Michigan banking moritorium of last February and the subsequent closing of the First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce. Senator Couzens and Father Coughlin made charges against certain officials of the two closed banks, while Senator Vandenberg criticized the policy of the federal government following the national banking holiday.

The first witness to appear before the jury when it reconvenes next week is expected to be Arthur J. Lacey, personal attorney for Senator Couzens. Gov. William A. Comstock, who proclaimed the Michigan banking holiday, is to appear later in the week.

NRA PREPARING TO CURB BOOST IN PRICES

'Super Board' to Be Created to Follow Code Operation

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Fearful that prices may outrun employment as business is organized under codes of fair competition, National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson today was preparing to create a "super board" to follow the operation of codes.

Reports that prices have been advanced to an unusual degree in many lines of business prompted Johnson to take this step while he is still engaged in the task of bringing the major industries of the nation under the administration.

The new phase in the development of the NRA is regarded by some observers as the most important part of the vast program of mobilizing business for shorter hours and higher wages.

With the Recovery Act setting up a bar against monopolies but giving business the right to organize despite the anti-trust laws, the plan of Johnson calls for a governmental organization to keep a checkrein on business during the life of the Recovery Administration.

A general code board, with boards for each industry—and with the President having the power to modify codes and the Department of Justice authorized to prevent monopolies—the new plan calls for the most far-reaching supervision of business operations yet attempted. Johnson said:

"If we find a runaway price, we will call in the governing body of the industry and say that there is an abuse of the code. The industry becomes liable under the Sherman Act if it is a monopoly."

The recvery administration is making no plans to raise the wages of employes paid more than $35 a week, the dividing line set in most codes in the regulation of hours. Johnson said:

"I'm not so much interested in a man getting $1,800 a year."

He predicted, however, that success of the NRA plan to raise the low-paid classes will result in all wage schedules being revised upward.

WARNS OF POLL TRICKERY

Warning voters against being confused by political trickery, Joseph Dilworth urged the election of P. J. McArdle for Mayor, and his Independent Republican slate, in an address in behalf of the Citizens' League yesterday.

The mistake of permitting forces under domination of the machine to profit by divided opposition to it must be especially guarded against, he cautioned.

The forces, he said, are three in number:

"The inner circle of the Coyne-Herron machine now in power.

"The outer ring which wants to supplant those nearest to the chief power, Senator Coyne.

"The opposition, in this case the Democratic, an inner ring shown to be closely allied with with the Coyne-Herron circle.

"Opposed to all these there is the single, actually Independent force headed by P. J. McArdle and indorsed by the Citizens' League. If you investigate the facts you will find that the Citizens' League-McArdle ticket is the only one not either openly or secretly allied or friendly with the Coyne-Herron machine or its dominating bosses."

MRS. LAVERNE M'CONKEY, 21, HER BRIDEGROOM ARRESTED

Saddened Mrs. McConkey, Atlanta girl in police hands in Detroit, where she maintains that she knows nothing of the series of holdups that her young husband, Paul, 25, has confessed. They were married only last July 29, were honeymooning when police locked them up. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

MACKRELL RAPS ASSESSMENTS

Joseph N. Mackrell, progressive Republican candidate for Mayor, attacked property assessments in the Nineteenth Ward in a speech at the home of Mrs. Hazel Schroeder, Orangewood avenue, Beechview, yesterday.

He said:

"Property owners of the Nineteenth Ward are being punished with increased taxation because of their political independence. The only answer is a revaluation and re-assessment of these properties on an equal footing with other parts of the city."

Mackrell advocated old-age pensions, protection of public school systems from politics and freedom of the police and fire departments from politics. He announced his opposition "to and by" Senator Coyne.

PUBLICIZE CITY, CONNELLEY AIM

Councilman Clifford B. Connelley, candidate for re-election on the Regular Republican ticket, pledged himself to work for the attraction of new industries to Pittsburgh in an address last night.

Connelley said he would shortly present a comprehensive plan to Council to draw business here by publicizing the city's advantages.

Claiming that the state was not now bearing its rightful share of taxation in comparison with the city, Connelley said the present administration was committed to "an earnest and scientific study of every angle" of the tax problem.

Mrs. S. M. Phillips Announces Platform

Opening with the statement that women are entitled to one-ninth of the seats in Council, Mrs. Sarah M. Phillips, councilmanic candidate, announced her platform today. It stresses impartial care of public interests, and advocates rigid civil service enforcement.

Mrs. Robert E. Seldon, president of the County Parent-Teacher Association, was named general chairman of campaign committees for Mrs. Sarah M. Phillips. Mrs. Carl A. Voss, Mrs. D. Edwin Miller and Mrs. Walter Fleming are vice chairmen. Mrs. Clarence Dunham is secretary, and Mrs. John A. Crosbie, treasurer.

Polish Union Backs Judge Candidates

The candidacies of Judges Benjamin Lencher and Frank Piekarski, for County Court, and Judges Harry H. Rowand and Ralph H. Smith, for Common Pleas Court, were unanimously indorsed by Branch No. 343, Polish Roman Catholic Union, yesterday.

Judge Lencher will speak this afternoon at Windgap School, Twenty-eighth Ward, and tonight at meetings of war veterans in the Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth and Nineteenth Wards. He also will be guest of honor with the three other judges at a political rally of the Homestead Elks, Homestead.

M'NAIR TO TALK AT SCHOOL

William N. McNair, Democratic candidate for Mayor, will speak at the McNaugher School at 8 o'clock tonight. Other speakers are Dean A. Marshall Thompson, Pitt Law School, Democratic candidate for Common Pleas Court, and Austin L. Staley, Democratic candidate for County Court.

Representative John J. Kane, Democratic candidate for Council, will address an outdoor meeting at Grand and Penn avenues, Turtle Creek, at 8:15 p. m.

Four Democratic candidates, John J. Kennedy for Common Pleas Court; James L. O'Toole, Jr., for County Court; John Heinz, for Sheriff, and Vincent L. Marino, for Coroner, will speak at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, Roosevelt way and Thirteenth street, Sharpsburg, at 8 p. m.

Houston Indorses Citizens' Ticket

John D. Houston, independent leader who initiated the investigation of the city department of supplies, issued a statement today affirming his "entire sympathy" with the Citizens' Committee in supporting the group of candidates headed by P. J. McArdle.

Houston said he wished to avoid being confused with John M. Huston, resident of the Tenth Ward and formerly active in behalf of the Citizens' Committee. John M. Huston switched to the Mackrell camp, then to the Democratic, where his name appears on the councilmanic slate, Houston said.

R. D. Evans Speaking At Picnics Today

Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, candidate for Common Pleas Court, is speaking today at the Thirteenth Ward Association picnic, a Welsh picnic in Schenley Park, Duquesne Republican Club corn roast, Duquesne Place Park, and the Avalon Club picnic, California avenue.

He also will address a meeting of the Loyal Order of Moose, North avenue and Boyle street, tonight.

HUMES BRANDS KANE CHARGES AS FALSE

Independents Launch Fierce Offensive For John Henry

Invoking together the names of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Maj. E. Lowry Humes and John Henry, candidate for mayor, launched a fierce independent Democratic offensive before 100 residents of Henry's own ward in the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Building, Forbes street, last night.

That Henry joined in a "Stop Roosevelt" movement, as claimed by Representative John J. Kane, is a deliberate unmitigated falsehood, Humes said. He challenged:

"Kane's unwarranted attack evidences the Democratic machine repudiates Gov. Smith and all of those good citizens who have loved him for his accomplishments and for the sterling qualities which have won the admiration of the American people, regardless of party."

Pointing out that McNair voted, as instructed, for Smith's nomination, Humes said Henry was from the first convinced Roosevelt was the logical candidate.

EXPLAINS RETENTION

Branding the charges that Henry was a Republican payroller "an effrontery," Humes explained that Henry served as Democratic member of the Registration Commission to rid the city of phantom voters, being later retained by County Commissioners to prosecute offenders against election laws.

Henry stated that Roosevelt had answered the county's cry for leadership and that the local Democratic organization was incapable of it.

Charging the Democratic organization with utter servility to the Republican interests, he said:

"The Democratic organization has never lifted a finger against corrupt election systems here. It has been used to set up straw men on whom Republican bosses can rely if their candidates fail in the primaries."

HITS AT TRIBUTE

Henry struck at the corruption and expense of government here and the tribute levied by special privilege on the public in high prices so that campaign funds and payrolls may be padded. He said the city could be better run at a third the cost and with a third the employes.

Leo Guthrie, candidate for jury commissioner; Mrs. Anne Felix and Adolph Edlis also spoke in behalf of Henry's candidacy.

CLASH ON MINE CHECKING FEES

Officials of the United Mine Workers of America today were expecting a showdown on the controversies in Western Pennsylvania coal mines regarding the manner of paying union checkweighmen. Many local unions will meet tonight and tomorrow if the checkweighmen fail to receive the full amount of their claims, officials said.

Miners in the Fayette County region were receiving their pay today. Heads of the unions in that district insist that the H. C. Frick Coke Company and other large employers make the deductions of pay for the union checkweighman from all miners' wages.

Heads of some of the companies announced they would not deduct the money until each miner signed a card authorizing that action. Some workers, it was said, object to having $1 a month taken from their envelopes for checkers.

Father Cox Backs Judge Piekarski

Terming Judge Frank A. Piekarski a "real American" with a brilliant record on the bench, Father James R. Cox today indorsed his candidacy for County Court.

Judge Piekarski will address a meeting of the Eleventh Legislative District Republicans at Elks Temple, Homestead, at 8 o'clock tonight.

POPEYE CUTTING HIMSELF A PIECE-A-CAKE

"BLOWN ME DOWN! THIS IS SURE SCRUMPTIOUS" . . . . . POPEYE'S BIRTHDAY PARTY DAY

Here's Popeye, beloved pugnacious character of the Sun-Telegraph comic pages, in the flesh, as he celebrated yesterday with thousands of boys and girls at Kennywood Park. The occasion was his "birthday" and the kiddies were provided with strips of free tickets. The cake weighed 250 pounds, the biggest ever made in Pittsburgh. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

3 Fair Visitors Drown As Boats Crash, Sink

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A double investigation, by police and coast guards, was under way today into a collision of two watercraft which cost the lives of three World's Fair sightseers.

Both boats, the Miss Chicago, a speedboat which carried 10 passengers and its pilot, and the cabin cruiser, the Visitor, with seven aboard, sank after their crash, which occurred last night in Lake Michigan near the mouth of the Chicago River and about 500 feet from the coast guard station.

A lookout who saw the accident dispatched three coast guard boats and 10 men who rescued all the Visitor's passengers and all but four of the speedboat's. Its pilot, Walter Pomper, was dragged to safety by the pilot of another speedboat which hurried up to aid.

Only one body was recovered, that of a woman apparently about 40. Coast guards dragged the lake for several hours seeking the others, believed to be a father and his young son.

Mackrell Leaders Mum On McArdle Letter

Efforts through a circular letter campaign engineered by attaches of Mackrell headquarters, to discover if all members of the Citizens' League indorsed Councilman P. J. McArdle for the Republican mayoralty nomination, apparently brought no results except revelation of the "confidential" attempt.

The letters were sent to members of the league over the signature of Charles L. Hannan, an attache of Mackrell headquarters. Hannan is quoted as saying the letters were approved by William N. Robson, of Mackrell headquarters, and J. Boyd Euwer, treasurer of the Mackrell campaign committee.

League members who received the communications informed officials of the league, and the authorship of the "confidential" letters was promptly uncovered. At Mackrell headquarters no comment was made on the subject, and it could not be learned that any member of the league had replied in a manner satisfactory to the Mackrell candidacy.

The letters asked recipients if they had received income directly or indirectly "from the Mellons," and asked if members of the league were not under the impression that the Citizens' League "would not indorse men known as politicians."

This was an obvious reference to the indorsement of McArdle after William P. Witherow, the original mayoralty choice of the league, had withdrawn. The specific question was asked:

"Did you expect the Citizens' League to back Witherow for Mayor?"

League officials have consistently claimed that when McArdle was indorsed members of the league were first canvassed, and the indorsement was not made until approval had been given by the membership.

Sea Wall's Collapse Floods Army Fort On Delaware

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A party aboard a yacht which was caught in Wednesday's storm off the Virginia coast arrived here last night after being rescued by Capt. O. H. Meyer, of the collier N. and J. Tracy.

Members of the party, composed of Dr. and Mrs. Eliott M. Campbell, of Washington, their 12-year-old daughter, Mary, and two friends, William B. N. Brooks and his son, Robert, 14, of Pittsburgh, and William Sheean, a sailor, were rescued after the yacht was battered for hours by the storm.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Fort Mifflin, on the Delaware River just below the mouth of the Schuylkill, was under several feet of water last night after a 12-foot seawall collapsed at one place.

Death Toll 49, Damage Millions as Skies Clear

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Basking in sunshine for the first time in a week, the eastern seaboard today set about bringing order from the destruction wreaked by one of the most disastrous storms in years.

With death toll from the storm set at 49 and property damage in the millions, most of the coastal region emerged from the storm path to start final check up of damages and start rehabilitation work. The tempest had swung well into Canadian territory this morning, its force waning.

The death list, with additional casualties threatened from impending floods in Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, was set at 14 in Pennsylvania; New York, 2; New Jersey, 10; Delaware, 2; Virginia, 11, and Maryland, 10.

The Schuylkill and Delaware rivers in Pennsylvania were still at high marks with wide areas already under water.

BROKER DEATHS HELD SUICIDES

Verdicts of suicide were returned today by a Coroner's jury in the deaths of Louis Greenberger, 48, of 5933 Hobart street, and Isadore W. Jacobs, 51, of 5246 Forbes street, investment brokers.

Both swallowed poison on July 6, Jacobs dying in Montefiore hospital on July 13 and Greenberger dying in the same hospital six days later. Members of the families stated they knew of no cause that might lead to suicide.

A physician at the hospital testified that Greenberger had told him "no one would help him out." Bernard Teplitz, auditor, testified he had made an audit of the books of a building and loan association of which Jacobs was secretary and discovered a shortage.

Two Men Injured In North Side Crash

Two men, injured in a collision of automobiles in Brighton road early today, were treated at Allegheny General Hospital.

They were Delbert Allen, 34, 3755 Atkins street, and William Trechler, 42, of 3131 Oxfield street. Allen and F. D. Williams, of 300 Kennedy avenue, the drivers, were arrested.

BALK KIDNAPING, SEIZE FOUR

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—An unflagging pursuit was maintained today in the investigation which Connecticut authorities said had thwarted a kidnaping plot on the very eve of its execution.

With two men in Hartford County Jail under $25,000 bonds each on charges of conspiracy to kidnap, and two others held as material witnesses, the authorities said they sought seven more men.

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and Detective Edward J. Hickey said the ring had plotted to kidnap a wealthy Springfield (Mass.) business man and to hold him for $50,000 ransom.

Those held on the conspiracy charge were Ernest Corvo and Mario Campisi.

Alcorn said the gang had marked for kidnaping Judge Israel Poliner, of the Middletown Police Court, a prominent figure in the Connecticut judiciary.

WOMAN DOCTOR STABS TWO

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Dr. Virginia Wilson, clad only in a blanket, was captured by police last night a half mile from the home of Dr. Anita Muhl, where police said she became crazed and stabbed to death Miss Ann Kiffe, 50.

Mrs. Muhl, 40, psychiatrist and civic leader, also was stabbed by Dr. Wilson, police said, and reported the butcher knife with which she allegedly attacked the two women was still in her possession when she was taken into custody.

Dr. Wilson, 36, recently had taught in the summer school of the California College of Medicine at Berkeley.

CHINESE ASKED TO LOCATE NUNS

Chinese military officials at Hankow, China, have been appealed to by American Consular officials to locate eight American Catholic missionaries, six of them women from the Pittsburgh district, according to an Associated Press report.

They have been marooned in Yuanchow, Central China, as the result of seizure of that town by rebel troops. The six are Passionist Sisters of St. Joseph, with headquarters at Mt. Gallitzen, convent at Baden.

The missionaries isolated are Sisters Genevieve Ryan, Christina Worth, Magdaline Ivan, Dosario Goss, Saintanne Callahan, Mary Mark Mullen and the Rev. Edward McCarthy, of Boston, and the Rev. Francis Flaherty, of Cincinnati, members of the American Passionist Order.

Seven other missionaries in the war zone in Northern Fukien Province are also being sought by American Consular officers.

SLEEP MALADY PERILS SCHOOLS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Thousands of children in the suburban districts of this city may not be able to return to school on schedule this fall because of the serious epidemic of "sleeping sickness" which has taken 31 lives in this vicinity in less than a month.

The Metropolitan Health Council of St. Louis today had vested authority with health officers in each community affected by the outbreak to advise whether their schools should open September 5.

Dr. William G. Patton, superintendent of St. Louis County Hospital, was outspoken in his opposition to this plan, insisting the council should advise all schools to remain closed until the outbreak subsides, or until a more adequate knowledge of the malady is gained by science.

During the last 24 hours, three additional deaths were reported, while 25 new cases brought the total to 243.

Prince's Fleeing Bride Still His Ideal Girl

Desertion of Heiress After 5-Days 'Very Private Affair'

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A deserted prince sat in his temporary castle, a suite at the St. Moritz, and insisted that although his New York heiress bride left him five days after their marriage, the American girl is still his ideal.

Prince Francesco Don Caravita, son of Prince Di Sirignano, of Naples, who wooed, won and lost his 19-year-old American bride, the former Janet Snowden, American heiress, within the brief space of a week, said through an interpreter:

"Since I was a little boy I have dreamed of marrying an American girl."

When questioned as to the reason for the abrupt departure of the new Princess Caravita, the Prince became reticent. Said he:

"Being a gentleman, I cannot talk about the lady who bears my name. It is a matter between two people—a very private affair. I could not be a gentleman and talk about it."

However, he hastened to add that the disagreement was not over finances, saying:

"I am a very wealthy man. I need no money. I have plenty of money. I am in the wine business in Naples. For amusement I drive racing automobiles. Right now I am nursing two broken ribs, broken driving up the side of a mountain."

Princess Caravita, in marrying an Italian prince, followed the example of her older sister, the former Marion Snowden, now Princess Rospigliosi.

But the latter sister is still happily married to her prince.

Store Thieves Held In $1,000 Bail Each

Three men charged with shoplifting in a downtown store were held in $1,000 bail each today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg for further investigation. The men gave the names of John Muccino, 21, of 216 Marlane street; Emil Kimmell, 24, of 101 Horn street, and Lawrence Nath, 25, of 825 Shuler street.

William Sayles, 28, Negro, of 32 Overhill street, was held for court in $1,000 bail charged with stealing merchandise valued at $13.50.

STRIKES AGAIN PLAGUE CUBA

HAVANA, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Labor unrest that precipitated the ousting of Gerardo Machado plagued with renewed force today the dictatorial government of his successor, President de Cespedes.

Bakers, motion picture operators, stevedores, street car men and others here or in other parts of the island were on strike, mostly for shorter hours and more pay.

Agitators continued to attack the new administration, which last night was hailed by large crowds as having taken the right road when it dissolved Congress, set dates for new elections, and declared Machado's acts in his second term illegal.

SANTA CLARA Cuba, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Armed groups of followers of former President Gerardo Machado early today skirmished with soldiers and members of the ABC secret society in the Sangil section. Bands of Machadistas likewise were reported near three smaller Santa Clara towns, and Military Commander Amiel ordered troops to go in pursuit.

Machado Prepares To Flee Nassau

NASSAU, N. P., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Gerardo Machado, deposed president of Cuba, prepared for hasty departure to an unannounced destination by airplane or steamer today.

A seaplane floating in the Harbor offered one means of travel while Machado and three associates awaited advices from a Canadian steamship line about accammodations aboard the Lady Rodney, due from Jamaica today.

Nude Man Arrested On 'Drunk' Charge

Resident of Watt street looked, rubbed their eyes, and then looked again. They weren't seeing things. It was real and moving—a nude man. Someone called police.

They arrested Howard Burke, 34, a Negro, of 2940 Orbin street on a charge of drunkenness.

SPEED URSCHEL KIDNAP TRIAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Within two weeks the government's prosecutors hope to line up the accused kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel in a federal courtroom and try them for the oil millionaire's $200,000 abduction.

Today, with the first consignment of prisoners to reach here guarded behind triple lines of sentries in the specially fortified county jail, District Attorney Herbert Hyde said nine others will join them "within a few days," clearing the way for a speedy trial on conspiracy charges under the new federal law that provides a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

The three Shannons — R. G. (Boss) Shannon, his wife and his son, Armon—were flown here from a Fort Worth (Tex.) removal hearing yesterday under the trained guns of federal operatives.

Harvey Bailey, alleged key figure in the abduction, remained in a cell at Dallas, Tex. Albert Bates yesterday waived extradition at Denver. Seven men were arraigned under conspiracy charges yesterday at St. Paul as a result of circulation of the ransom money.

CONVICT COOKS FLEE PRISON

Dinner, or was it supper, was late at Rockview Prison, near Bellefonte, last night. The meal was delayed by the sudden departure of two cooks, Frank Nedeau, sentenced from Allegheny County for burglary, and Wayne Daugherty, sent up from Crawford County.

With them went an automobile of the state police and several suits of civilian clothes.

Nedeau, who was convicted under the name of "Nedean," but had several aliases, including "Peewee," was serving a term of from four to 12 years. It was imposed December 8, 1931, by Judge James H. Gray when Nedeau pleaded guilty to four charges of burglary.

KIDNAPER KILLS OFFICER, DIES IN FLIGHT

Cousin of Taft Freed By Gun Battle in Crowded Market

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Freed from a kidnaper who fell dying in a blaze of gun fire after fatally wounding an officer in a crowded public market, William F. Wood, 45, a cousin of the late William Howard Taft, was under care of physicians today.

Wood, who said he had been held captive four days, tortured and forced to walk the streets in silence while arranging for his own ransom, was reported near collapse.

Bank books, securities and cash aggregating $10,000 which Wood asserted he had been forced to turn over to his abductor, were found in the latter's pockets.

Wood's release came with dramatic suddenness yesterday in the market, where his kidnaper had taken him "to buy some walnuts." The sight of a policeman nerved Wood to cry for help.

POLICEMAN KILLED

Responding to the cry, Patrolman Michael McDonald, 54, received three bullets in his body from the kidnaper's pistol and fell mortally wounded. He died several hours later.

The kidnaper, identified as Howard Stafford Meek, 30, alias Henry Jennings, a former ferryboat ticket taker, was shot down by other officers as he fled along a street outside the market.

Mrs. Ella Bowers, 62, passing by on her way to court to get a divorce, was struck in the arm by a stray bullet.

Wood, a retired business man, took refuge in a grocery department of the market as the shooting started. He was at first taken into custody as a suspected confederate of the slain man but quickly explained his identity.

Wood displayed lacerated wrists, caused, he said, by the wire with which his hands were bound at times during his captivity. His body was bruised from beatings he said he had received.

'Wrong Man' Kidnaped By Denver Gang

DENVER, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Department of Justice agents and police directing a search through Colorado and Wyoming for Bernard Bitterman, 28-year-old department store executive, believe he was kidnaped by persons who thought him a member of the family of David May, founder of the May company stores.

Bitterman disappeared Thursday night.

Alfred Triefus, manager of the store and close friend of the Bitterman family, yesterday received a note mailed from Cheyenne, Wyo. The note said:

"Your nephew is O. K. You'll hear from us later."

It was signed NRA.

Triefus immediately called Val Zimmer, Department of Justice agent, and William J. Armstrong, detective captain of the Denver police force.

Friends of the Bitterman family said the youthful executive was "not wealthy or even well-to-do."

DE ROSA AUTO IN COLLISION

In a collision between two automobiles and a street car on the Lincoln highway, two miles east of Irwin, early today the auto of Michael DeRosa, Jr., son of the Twelfth Ward Republican leader, was damaged.

DeRosa had loaned the machine to a friend, Paul Langsford, to visit his wife, who is ill in a hospital at Johnstown, DeRosa said.

The DeRosa automobile is reported to have sideswiped another machine, forcing it from the highway. Out of control, the DeRosa car bounded onto the nearby street car tracks and was struck by a speeding street car.

EVANGELISTIC MOVEMENT UNDER WAY DOWNTOWN

SECOND CHURCH TO REOPEN ON SEPT. 10

With ministers returning from their vacations, plans are being made for the fall and winter season.

An extensive evangelistic movement is under way in the Second Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton is pastor. The church will reopen on Sunday, September 10. Tomorrow Dr. Shelton will preach in the Arch Street Church on "A Living and Present Christ—What Is He Doing Today?"

Community services, although nearing their close for the summer, are still attracting many.

UNION SERVICE

A union Sunday morning service is to be held by the Ben Avon Presbyterian and United Presbyterian congregations in the church of the latter denomination. It is the last union service for the season and will be in charge of the Rev. J. Howard Brinckerhoff, of the Presbyterian Church, who will speak on "How Controlling Events Master Our Lives."

The Wilkinsburg Council of Churches will hold its community service tomorrow evening in the Second Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Warren H. Hayes, preaching on "The Victorious Church." The United Brethren Church is in charge.

OAKLAND MEETING

Twenty-two congregations will hear the Rev. S. S. Lappin, of the Central Christian Church preach in Carnegie Music Hall, Oakland, at 8 o. m. tomorrow. The Rev. D. L. Patchel, assistant pastor of the Church of the Ascension will conduct the devotional exercises. Music will be given by the quartet of the Central Christian Church directed by H. S. Conley.

The South Hills Branch of the Christian Endeavor will conduct union services on the Grimes Lawn, Knoxville at 7 p. m. tomorrow. The Rev. J. W. Shell will be the speaker.

Believue churchgoers will hear the Rev. Frank G. Helme on "The Personality of Jesus" at the community services on the Y. M. C. A. lawn tomorrow evening.

Tax on Embezzled Bank Cash Upheld

The United States Circuit Court has upheld a decision by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson that the First National Bank of Sharon was liable to an income tax of $2,700 on $20,000 embezzled by a former employe. The bank sought to have the amount charged off as a bad debt.

R. G. DeArment pleaded guilty in November, 1928, of embezzling funds of the bank. It recovered from DeArment and his surety all but $20,000 of $95,000 involved.

The Story of Joseph -:- CHAPTER VIII -:- Told in Pictures by Dan Smith

Joseph's family in the Land of Canaan, like all the earth, suffered famine. Hearing there was corn in Egypt, Jacob sent 10 of his sons there with gold to buy corn, keeping at home only young Benjamin.

When Joseph's 10 brothers reached Egypt they went to the Governor to buy corn, and bowed down to him; but they did not recognize Joseph, whom they had sold into slavery years before.

But Joseph recognized his brothers and spoke roughly to them, accusing them of being spies. They protested, and told him they were all sons of one man and had left their youngest brother at home.

Then Joseph told them the only way they could prove their story was that nine stay in jail while one went and fetched the brother; otherwise he would put them all to death. Then he threw them in jail.

Globe-Trotter's Time Changed

The Globe Trotter's Saturday schedule is changed for today only.

Louis L. Kaufman, voice of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts today's news over WCAE and WJAS at 9:05 a. m. and 12:15 p. m.; over WCAE at 2:15 p. m. and 6:20 p. m. (instead of 6:30) and over WJAS at 6:30 p. m.

He resumes his regular schedule Monday.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

By far the biggest thing we ever tried to put across the radio was Primo Carnera, the heavyweight champion.

Dempsey was big, Baer was massive, but Primo—whew—was colossal.

It wouldn't be accurate to say that I shook his hand when I met him because it was such a small fraction of the whole that my inadequate hand covered. I did say:

"How do you do, sir."

The great Primo wrinkled his nose and glowered, then, softening his fighting face, he haltingly said:

"Forget that 'sir' stuff, old kid."

Then he lightly tapped me on the shoulder, which sent me stumbling over my feet into a chair.

Primo impressed those who were down here to see him broadcast as being an intelligent and capable young man, notwithstanding the stories of his clowning and simplicity. Those ideas might have been born from his unfamiliarity with English which causes him to say things that do sound funny and provoke laughter, to which he responds with a wide boyish, incongruous as it seems, grin.

If his response were a scowl, it wouldn't be so funny. Nobody would dare laugh. But as his command of the language is growing so is the respect for his intelligence.

Radio's Greatest Show to Boost NRA Sunday

By AIRCASTER

"The Greatest Show on Earth" blankets the airwaves tomorrow night.

Boosting the NRA, the most notable assemblage of radio stage and screen stars in history takes part in a gala program over combined NBC and CBS networks, including WCAE, WJAS and KDKA here. The curtain rises at 10:45 and the show goes on well until midnight.

Schumann-Heink

Before the microphone will be Will Rogers, Jack Pearl, Eddie Cantor, Burns and Allen; Jessica Dragonette, Ruth Etting, Bing Crosby, John Charles Thomas, Nino Martini; orchestra directed by Paul Whiteman, Walter Damrosch, Rosario Bourdeln, Nat Brusiloff and Andre Kostelanetz; the Army, Navy and Marine bands and a host of other entertainers.

Speakers will include Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Kate Smith and that grand old dame of opera, the beloved Mme. Schumann-Heink.

* * *

The gossips are taking about a sudden shift of Jack Pearl and sponsor to the Columbia waves, in October, because the time previously held at NBC is no longer available.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Here's news of a wedding that took place this very morning, that you've been waiting to hear about. At 11 o'clock in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. James J. Flannery, of Coraopolis, Mildred Virginia McCloy, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Flannery McCloy, of Coraopolis, became the bride of George Frederick Nixon, of the Drake Hotel, Chicago, and Glenaire, his summer estate in suburban Chicago.

The ceremony took place in the drawing room before an improvised altar of cibotium ferns, crotons and bamboo, with tall candelabra on either side. Officiating was the Rev. J. L. McCann, of Oakmont. The bride wore a suit of white crepe with a blouse of lace, and a large white hat trimmed with blue flowers, and blue slippers. Her flowers were white orchids from the bridegroom's orchid house.

Mrs. William H. Mulvihill, who was her niece's matron of honor, wore silver grey crepe with touches of pink and a waist corsage of pink orchids. Eugene G. Flannery, uncle of the bride, was the best man. Mrs. McCloy wore black and white and the bride's grandmother chose white for her costume. The bridegroom's parents were here for the ceremony. They flew here with the bridegroom in his plane yesterday. Only the families attended the marriage.

Gowned In Grey

At the wedding breakfast the bride's table was decorated in white with a note of blue here and there.

Mr. Nixon and his bride are to fly to Chicago in his plane, and then fly from there to California.

Calvary Episcopal Church, where so many of Pittsburgh society's daughters are wed, will once again be the scene of the marriage of one of the most well-liked members of the younger set, Lucretia Billings. Lucretia, the daughter of Mrs. Frederic Tremaine Billings and the late Dr. Billings, will become the bride of Dr. A. Murray Fisher, of Baltimore, son of the Jannon Fishers, of Eccleston, Md., at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The church is being decorated with palms, ferns and summer flowers.

Billings Wedding

Lucretia will wear white mousseline made with a high, cowl neckline, and long sleeves having ruffles of the material over the shoulders giving the new wide silhouette effect, the sleeves terminating in a point over each wrist. The full train is cut in three points, each edge with a ruffle of the mousseline. Her three-way veil of tulle will cascade from a twisted halo-effect band of tulle, caught with orange blossoms on either side.

Her attendants are wearing tea rose chiffon gowns, made with square necklines, short sleeves made of three wide ruffles, and with them they are to wear pale lavender organdie picture hats. They include Harriet Fickes and Betty McKay.

Tea Rose Gowns

Kittie Fisher, small niece of the bridegroom, is to the flower girl, and will wear a frock of tea rose with a poke bonnet and carry a colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Billings is to wear black velvet with a matching hat.

Jannon Fisher, Jr., will be his brother's best man and the ushers are to be another brother, Louis Fisher, and MacLane Fisher, a cousin, both of Baltimore; Frederic Tremaine Billings, Jr., brother of the bride; Dr. John Howard, of Baltimore, and Dr. Richard Beebe, of Albany.

Men in Party

The reception is to be in the Billings home after which Dr. Fisher and his bride will motor to Quebec. They will reside in Baltimore.

Miss Gertrude Dovel Being Married Today

The Rev. James A. Pollock, ofthe Eleventh United Presbyterian Church, North Side, is solemnizing the marriage of Miss Gertrude Dovel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dovel, of California avenue, and James Bradlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bradlow, of Norwich, Conn., at 4:30 o'clock today.

The ceremony is taking place in the Dovel home, before an embankment of palms and ferns. The bride, given in marriage by her father, is wearing a gown of white Romaine crepe having a yoke and sleeves of Chantilly lace, and a veil of tulle draped from a cap of lace and pearls caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet is ivory butterfly roses and lillies of the valley.

Mrs. Arthur Kirkland Bott, as matron of honor, is wearing turquoise blue lace and salmon velvet, and carrying tea roses. Miss Bernice Jacobs cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, is wearing pink crepe with blue velvet and carrying pink tea roses.

Socrates Zacharias, of Toronto, O., is the best man and J. Gordon Dovel, brother of the bride, is an usher.

A small reception is to be held after the wedding, and receiving with the bridal party will be the bride's mother, wearing a blue and white printed chiffon dress with a corsage of tea roses. There is to be a dinner for 30 guests. The bride's table will be decorated with old fashioned garden flowers in pink and white. The bridegroom's parents are here for the wedding.

After a motor trip to Chicago and other western cities, Mr. and Mrs. Bradlow will be at home here.

Dorothy Smith And A. S. Dunn Marrying

Miss Dorothy Bernice Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Knox Smith, of Warren street, North Side, this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock becomes the bride of Alfred Simon Daum, of Carrick avenue, Carrick.

Officiating is the Rev. Samuel Laing, and the ceremony is taking place in the Second United Presbyterian Church, Sandusky street and Stockton avenue.

The bride's father is giving her in marriage. She is wearing a gown of white satin with a tulle veil, and carrying white roses showered with lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Gladys H. Smith, as maid of honor, is wearing pink crepe with a pink tulle hat trimmed with white gardenias and is to carry gladioli and garden flowers. Mrs. Agnes B. Elliott, of Los Angeles as matron of honor, will wear blue lace with a corsage of gardenias.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Ella Mae Butler, of Youngstown, O., who will wear mint green taffeta, with a matching tulle hat trimmed with gardenias; Miss Edith Louise Batchelor, in peach taffeta with a matching hat; the bride's twin sisters Miss Mabel Marion and Miss Agnes Adelaide Smith, who will wear blue taffeta with pink tulle hats. They will all carry gladioli and summer flowers.

The bride's mother is wearing black lace over pink satin, with an old-fashioned corsage. Lois Gertrude Geib, of Sewickley, cousin of the bridegroom, will be the flower girl.

William A. Ochenhirt is to be best man and serving as ushers will be Frank Schindler, of Youngstown, O.; Ralph Roessler, Regis Peters, John Cercone and Elmer Mider. Miss Flora E. McCandless, a friend of the bride, is to be the organist and Mrs. W. T. Campbell, the soloist.

Mr. Daum and his bride will leave for Atlantic City and New York.

AMERICAN CHILDREN'S STYLES ARE COPIED IN EUROPE

WHEN MADAME SCHIAPARELLI, clever Italian-French coutourier, went back to Paris after her visit to these shores this summer, she took with her an entire American wardrobe for Gogo, her daughter, endorsement indeed for our clothes.

* * *

NO ONE could resist going a touch maternal when looking at American children's fashions. They're cute and babyish and sophisticated—all in one. Little copy-cat youngsters steal many of her mother's pet fashion notion for themselves. For sports wear they wear identical sweaters and skirts, matching mother's. One-year-olds and up wear oldish cardigan suits. The idea of cuff-links at the wrist is genuinely masculine, borrowed first for feminine sports clothes and now lifted bodily for tiny tots' dresses. Believe it or not, some dresses we've seen were no longer than 18 inches in length!

* * *

TOO MUCH cannot be said for our habit of dressing brother and sister alike. When sister wears a simple little dimity dress, brother signifies his approval by wearing a shirt of the same. When she wears a bright blue or red knitted suit, he wears a bright blue or red knitted suit too. Their hats match. Their gloves are the same, except for finer stitching on sister's. The boyish coat of polo cloth with beaver collar, or without fur; is duplicated on sister—slouch pockets, belt in back and all. The turtle neck that so becomes big brother is cunning on little sister. Twins, of course, look adorable in duplicate clothes.

* * *

IN THE picture that youngster swinging gayly wears a sweater suit to greet autumn's first cool day. In fact, each child is dressed in typical autumn fashion. You might keep this picture in mind when you're shopping for their next set of clothes. This youngster's sweater and skirt is knitted of dark blue, with pale blue yoke and flag insignia (which brother adores) on front.

* * *

THE LITTLE girl in the finely checked red, black and white woolen looks ready for school. And indeed she is, for nothing could be more appropriate. Curled up on a chair is the cutest child of all. She wears her blonde hair long and straight, with a bow. Her sweater-skirt-and-cardigan, in which she feels quite grown up, is in a fashionable new fall tone, reddish brown. The bands on the sweater are of red. She loves her pseudo-sophistication, little realizing that no costume could subtract from the charming youth of her little round face. As a matter of fact, it merely accentuates her childishness.

Mrs. Walter Held will discharge the recording secretary's duties; Mrs. George Parfitt those of the corresponding secretary, and Mrs. T. H. Hanley, Jr., of the treasurer.

The program committee has engaged a number of visiting speakers for the season, these including Mrs. Eugene Deatrick, of the University of West Virginia; Elmer Kenyon, Carnegie Institute of Technology; Attorney Charles Walter, Dr. Thomas Manley, Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchinson, president of Washington and Jefferson College, Mrs. Florence Pearson, who will talk on "Flowers in Foreign Lands," Dr. Albert Baird Wright, of Duquesne University, and Dr. Zoe Allison Johnston, whose subject will be "Radium."

Dr. Wright will discuss "Government and Its Relation to Business." Dr. Hutchinson is to visit the club at an evening meeting held in celebration of its tenth anniversary. Dr. Manley's topic is "Medicine—Past, Present and Future." A review of current plays will be given by Mr. Kenyon and Mr. Walter's talk will be on "Testacy vs. Intestacy."

President's day on September 9 will be marked by a musicale.

Former Gov. C. E. Milliken To Be Federation Film Luncheon Speaker

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Of more than ordinary interest to club women in general and to those interested in motion pictures in particular is news that Carl E. Milliken, former Governor of Maine, who is now secretary of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, will be present at the State Federation convention in October.

Mr. Milliken, who was twice Governor of the Pine Tree State, will address the motion picture luncheon on Thursday, October 12, and will also conduct the motion picture institute that afternoon. Mrs. Samuel B. Cuthbert, district motion picture chairman, will be in charge and will introduce Mrs. Charles T. Owens, of Norristown, state chairman.

The two subjects announced by Mrs. Owens for discussion are "Whose Children Shall See What Movies?" and "Women Set the Style in Movies." C. J. Latta, district manager of Warner Brothers will also speak and at the close of the institute the women will be entertained at one of the motion picture houses.

On Mrs. Cuthbert's committee are her vice chairman, Mrs. George Reinsmith, film chairman for the Allegheny County Federation; Mrs. N. H. Sloanker, of Leechburg; Miss Alta Staaf, Evans City; Mrs. C. W. Drake, Mrs. John W. Newmyer and Miss Margaret Jones, all of Irwin; Mrs. M. R. Hornung, New Castle, Lawrence County chairman and Mrs. Donald Laher, of Everett, Bedford County chairman.

There's to be a motion picture booth at the convention, too, and here different aides will be stationed each day.

During convention week the state executive board will be entertained at two luncheons, Dormont New Century Club opening its clubhouse on Monday, the ninth, and the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club giving its luncheon at the Edgeworth Club on Friday, which is the official playday of the convention.

Demonstration Day At Methodist Camp

Demonstration Day will be observed today at Epworth Woods, Methodist Episcopal Church camp, Perry highway, near Warrendale. There will be a program both afternoon and evening.

Mrs. George Bray, League Head, to Entertain

Mrs. George Bray, president of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, will entertain league members and their friends in the orchard at her home, Churchview avenue, Carrick, tomorrow from 5 until 10 o'clock. The affair, which is the third in a series of outdoor benefits, will be a picnic, with cafeteria service available for the picnickers who do not bring their own supper. It will also serve to celebrate Peace Pact Day.

Coffee and lemonade will be furnished. A fortune teller will be one of the several attractions. Mrs. Bray's neighbors, not all of whom are league members, are interested in its peace educational work and have volunteered to assist her, among these being Mrs. Charles Cochrane, Mrs. William Roemhild, Mrs. Robert Ferris, Mrs. Paul Cox, Mrs. Louis Trimber and Mrs. August Hiller.

At 8:30 o'clock a program will be given, Gustav Schramm, of the University of Pittsburgh, discussing the Kellogg Pact; Miss Evelyn Mason, of the Carnegie Tech Student League, discussing "Youth's Attitude Towards International Problems; native songs and dances in costume, and vocal solos by Mrs. Pemberton B. West, accompanied by Mrs. Grafton Darby.

Freedom

No more heart burnings—I am sane again
And life goes softly with unhurried feet.
I can bear even moonlight and white stars
Beating on budding flowers to make them sweet.

I can bear even moonlight and white stars
Dancing like fireflies. Fallen is love's load
From off my shoulders and there are no bars,
Love built, to keep me from the open road.

It may be that my heart is turned to stone—
I only feel no longer any pain.
And I am well content to ride alone,
Unless—unless you call me back again.

Christine Hamilton.

Very Likely

Theater managers and producers, perhaps, will continue being the theater's real villains. So far as some actors are concerned, at any rate.

One girl who lost her chorus job called back stage to try and weep one into changing his mind. But she couldn't see him.

"Why can't I see him?" she asked. "Where is he?"

"He's up in his office, snarled a comrade, "with a bottle of wine against his heart—trying to chill it."

In Fewer Words

The short history of the past two years: Show-Off. Show-Down. Shown-Up.

Izzy Elinsonisms

I don't believe anybody is really trying to kidnap Rockefeller's kin at all. Who wants $50,000 in dimes?

By the way, I know a gangster who feels miserable because he neglected his education. He says he'd make a swell kidsnatcher if he could only write ransom notes!

You've Heard Him

It was during a listless broadcast the other night by an air clown, and the forced comedy proved too much for Lew Brown.

"That guy's mother," said Lew, "heard him on the air for the first time last Sunday—and now refuses his support!"

Oop!

On Broadway that day is gone when a celebrity can get away with his or her bad manners. As frixample: In one of the beauty salons, a well known actress rushed into the busy place and demanded quick attention.

"I'm very sorry," was the crusher, "but you'll have to take your turn in line——there are several others waiting who are just as unimportant as you are."

The Retort Lovely

Jules Levine doesn't recall where he heard or read it, which is the most honest confession of a column contrib yet. At any rate, it deals with the pal who went back stage to see Fred Stone.

"Isn't it a shame," lamented the pal, "that you have nothing but daughters."

"Nothing but daughters?" snorted Fred, "I have EVERYTHING but sons!"

Balm

One thing about being an idiot, admits Carl De Vilbiss, is that nobody brags how he made you what you are.

Cub Stuff

One of the school of journalism graduates at Columbia University was grooming himself for what is laughingly known as "the greatest profession in the world." He landed a job with a New York paper and shared a locker with one of the telegraph operators. One rainy night he went to claim his hat and coat. The telegrapher had fastened a note on the door handle, which read:

"Keep this locker locked. I have a bug in here!"

The pale carbon of Greeley, not knowing how large the bug was, or how poisonous its bite was, went home in the storm without his hat or coat.

A bug, of course, is what a telegrapher calls a telegraph-sending instrument!

Famous Men on Fame

What is fame? It is the advantage of being known by people of whom you yourself know nothing, and to whom you care little. Stanislaus . . . Few people make much noise after their deaths who did not do so while living.—Hazlitt. . . . What a heavy burden is a name that has too soon become famous.—Voltaire . . . Fame—a few words upon a tombstone, and the truth of those not to be depended up.—Bovee . . . It is the penalty of fame that a man must ever keep rising. Get a reputation and then go to bed is the absurdest of all maxims. —E. H. Chapin.

It would be near the truth if it were:

"KEEP UP A REPUTATION or go to bed!"

Unrequited Love

Jim Tully is Hollywood's severest critic. His nimble wordage, with Hollywood people serving as his targets, started a vogue for smaller hats. However, at a party once, when the Tullys arrived, most of the guests got their wraps and departed—a terrific snub.

It remained for Quinn Martin, a film reviewer at the time, to even matters a little for Tully. Martin wrote:

"Hollywood, not being quite bright, is adopting a characteristically stupid attitude toward the one man there who apparently knows too much about them!"

The next day after giving Tully that affectionate embrace, Martin was irked no little to read a new simile by Tully, viz:

"As illiterate as a film critic!"

Of All Things!

When reporters asked Aimee McPherson what she thought about her visit to a night club, Aimee cooed:

"I can see them dancing on trapdoors. When the traps are sprung they will fall into the pit of hell and the devil will catch them on his pitchforks. These poor girls, they are so hopeless. They appear to be having fun, but they are not having a good time."

Perhaps this will amuse them, honey.

Observation

More interesting than any of the Broadway side shows is the miniature museum on the mezzanine of the Ziegfeld Theater, now one of the Loew chain of kodak shows. Here the spectator catches a glimpse of the old programs from "Follies" shows and others produced by the late glorifier, some beads from a costume worn by Dolores, the dancing slippers that graced the toes of Marilyn Miller, and there are letters from famous people to Ziegfeld. And Billie Burke, the showman's widow, who helped put this solemn-looking museum together, revealed her bigness about matters close to Ziegfeld's heart.

Miss Burke also added to the collection—a photo of his first wife—Anna Held.

Mae West in Davis

By JEAN FRITCHEY

Adventures and thrills abound in the double bills at the Davis and Sheridan Square. At the Davis there is Mae West in "She Done Him Wrong" and Zane Grey's story of "Man of the Forest."

Miss West portrays the character of Lady Lou, star performer in a notorious beer hall of the 90's. She is renowned for her flashy diamonds and clothes, but no less for her trifling with men's hearts. Her supporting cast includes Noah Beery, Cary Grant and Gilbert Roland.

"Man of the Forest" is a story of outdoor life with plenty of action. Randolph Scott, Pittsburgh's own Vincent Barnett, Myrna Kennedy and Buster Crabbe are in the lively cast. Of course, there is a girl in the story, besides an attempted kidnaping and other exciting events. The Davis bill includes pictures of the "Exposition of Progress" in Chicago, both entertaining and instructive, and an interesting Fox Movietone newsreel.

The Sheridan Square program, besides "Man of the Forest" and several shorts, includes a weird eerie thriller of supernatural aspects, "Before Dawn," wherein a man is murdered, a woman dies of fright and an eccentric old lady disappears in the night. Pretty Dorothy Wilson and Stuart Erwin will help you solve the mysteries. But beware of the villain, Warner Oland. He's a terror.

Solomon Goes Hollywood At Last

By GEORGE SEIBEL

What happens to the classics when the MGM lion puts his paws upon them is shown in "The Song of Songs," which brought the alluring Marlene Dietrich to the Penn screen yesterday. Solomon furnished the original text and Sudermann preached a bawdy sermon upon it. Solomon was the wise king with 1,000 wives, etc., while Sudermann was that German dramatist who wrote "Magda." He also wrote the novel, "Das Hohe Lied," on which the dramatist, Edward Sheldon, based a somewhat conventional play. Now Birinski and Hoffenstein and Mamoulian have taken novel and drama and turned them into a gorgeous picture that would make Sudermann tear every hair out of his long black beard if he saw it.

Mr. Seibel

Not that it isn't a good picture, as pictures go. Sudermann's Lily was a very weak sister who waded in mud ankle-deep. The Lily portrayed by Marlene gets splashed a little, but in the end she smashes her statue with a mallet and presumably will now pose for nothing but cemetery angels.

There never was any doubt that the statue would be smashed at last but in the meantime Lily has various adventures. First loved by the sculptor—Brian Aherne, of Wimpole street—she is sold to a baron and nearly burnt alive with a young agriculturist—Hardie Albright, of Tech. Then she sings a torch song in a gilded speakeasy, supposed to be a Berlin "Diele," and her sculptor gets her to go home with him to the statue waiting to be smashed.

Marlene, as Lily, has a wistful way that would have pleased Solomon, and she reads his great love lyric with the devout accents of an inspired Mennonite. Her acting is as finished and her personality as pluperfect as ever, and who would blame the Baron, who shares the acting honors with her, and who looked very Prussian, although his name was Lionel Atwill? Alison Skipworth also gave a very competent interpretation of an aunt who runs a circulating library in Berlin or Bloomsbury.

Geography does not matter very much, for the sculptor takes Lily from Berlin to a picnic which is evidently in the high Sierras. But if you take your geography on trust, and don't mind what they have done to Sudermann and are glad to see his hussy redeemed at last, you will take delight in the fine pictures, the very brilliant acting, the occasionally inspired stage direction, and all the other elaborate and expensive trimmings Hollywood alone could add to the eloquent lyric Solomon wrote before he was so very wise.

It's a grand picture, and the people disappointed by a minimum of nudity got a maximum in some South Sea travel talks by Fitz-Patrick, while those who wanted more comedy had it ladled out by Ted Healy in a slapstick farce called "Beer and Pretzels." But if you've never heard Aimee Semple McPherson, you should hear Marlene Dietrich read Solomon.

Gossip About The Stars

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Naturally eager to further his wife's career, Merian C. Cooper has considered several stories for Dorothy Jordan's next picture. The one she'll probably do, however, is Lulu Volmer's play, "Trigger," which has been purchased by RKO.

In this story, Dorothy will portray a mountain girl of her own birth state, Tennessee.

This pretty actress, with the southern accent, has become one of Hollywood's most important hostesses of late. She recently has entertained the John Hay Whitneys, Elliott Roosevelt and his bride and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry D. Roosevelt.

Few people in Hollywood realize what a wide circle of friends may be listed by the quiet-seeming Merian Cooper. He went to Annapolis, was an aviator in the World War and has explored many of the out-of-the-way places of the world.

A friend of Bill Goetz recently was bragging about a fellow who was going to fix a speeding charge for him. Several days later Bill met the friend again and asked him if the charge had been dismissed. The friend cried:

"Dismissed! If you ever want any traffic tickets reduced to manslaughter, just see that guy!"

Janet Gaynor is vacationing incognito in a camp in the Wisconsin woods.

The railroad finally accepted responsibility for Clara Bow's young cousin and she is back in Brooklyn. The boy will remain with Clara and Rex in Hollywood.

Richard Dix In Warner

By EDWARD SYKES

"No Marriage Ties," at the Warner this week, is a story of a man who is the master of two women's hearts. Richard Dix portrays a high-pressure advertising man who trifles with women's affections. He does some very clever acting. And so does Doris Kenyon and Elizabeth Allan.

There is nothing dull about the story, which has plenty of laughs. In brief, a newspaper writer becomes an advertising man, after he has been kicked out of a newspaper office and finally finds himself, when he finds a girl. But more than one enters into his life. Miss Kenyon certainly helps to give the story plenty of love support. Dix is a good comedian and, while at times the story is inclined to be overdrawn, it is well presented.

In a second feature "Good House Wrecking," Edgar Kennedy and Florence Lake get plenty of laughs with their slapstick and tomfoolery. There is certainly not much left of the house which this inimitable pair sets out to decorate, after they get through with it. Pathe Review also presents some excellent pictures of current events.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Odds and Ends.

"IT'S NOT a story about a star," writes Irving Rubine, "Because Verna Burke, who'll be on an operating table at the North Hudson hospital over in Jersey when you read these lines, is just another singer. She's similar to a number of the kids you'll find singing for coffee and cake around the town.

"It was not so long ago, however, that she showed promise of becoming one of the finest dancers in the theater. Two years ago she broke her leg and suffered intestinal injuries while rehearsing a new dance step she had routined.

"Her doctor told her at that time that, if she ever wanted to dance again, she had better lay off and take up something less active. So she capitalized on a nice voice and became a singer. But she had to go through the same struggle that had brought her to the top as a dancer.

"During the past two years she has been offered attractive sums to go into vaudeville and to do movie work—but she turned them down because that was the doctor's orders. She was waiting for the day when she would dance again and, for a few extra dollars, she wasn't going to spoil her chances. She'd get along on what she earned as a singer.

"It was hard, Mark, because many times, between jobs, she had to exist on a piece of bread and a glass of milk for dinner. But it was worth it, she figured, if it meant that she would heal up enough inside to get back to her old love—dancing.

"Last week her neighbor's little girl, who is studying dancing, showed Verna a new step she had learned in dancing school. The kid was having a difficult time with the step because she didn't know how to release her upper leg muscles.

"This was old stuff to Verna and, forgetting everything for the moment, she showed the tot how it should be done. When she straightened herself out, she felt a slight pain in her side. But she said nothing.

"The following night the pain grew so severe that she was unable to stand upright. They carried her to her dressing room in the hotel in which she was working and a doctor was summoned. He told her she was suffering from adhesions of the kidney, brought about by undue activity. She would have to be operated on, he stated, and he was afraid that after she left the hospital she would never be able to dance again.

"Poor Verna! All her dreams of the past two years were shattered. And not because she was money-hungry, Mark. She had far too much sense for that. It was all to please a kid.

"I am her press agent—and the payoff is this. When she found out she was through as a dancer she called me over.

"'Don't tell the papers how it happened,' she requested. 'Tell them I was rehearsing for a vaudeville act. I—well, I wouldn't want the kid to know how it happened.'" . . .

HERE IS some news for those of you kind people who are interested in the contest announced in this column a week ago. It was a tough assignment and I really didn't expect a great many replies. I set 500 as a limit. Much to my astonishment, however, I have already received almost 1,500 columns. All of which tickles me immensely.

For those who missed the details, I would like to repeat them briefly. I supply the two opening paragraphs of a column, and they must be used. You then add about 1,000 words, completing the story in any way you see fit. The prizes are $30 for the best column, and $10 each for the two next best. The contest closes September 10, at midnight, and replies should be addressed to Mark Hellinger, 235 East Forty-fifth street, New York City.

Here are the two paragraphs that must open your story:

"Joe Green walked slowly in the direction of his home after a pretty dull day. Passing him, you would never give him a second glance. For Joe Green was so essentially the average man that a second glance was never necessary.

"Everything about the man spelled the average. The way his clothes fitted him. That plodding look in his eyes. The very manner in which he walked. Average, that was Joe Green. And it was a thousand to one he would go through life exactly as he was."

That's your lead. After that, you can do anything you wish with Joe Green. His possibilities are limitless, and you may be able to fit him into a story you've had in mind for years. Remember, I haven't any idea what the winning idea is going to be—so that you and your neighbor start from scratch.

Go to it. And thanks for your interest . . .

IN THIS hospital a short time ago an emergency case walked in about four o'clock in the morning. He complained bitterly of severe pains in the back of the neck, and he seemed to be in such agony that an interne was hastily summoned. The interne, roused from his sleep after a very tough day, dressed hastily and raced to the man's assistance. He immediately asked what the trouble was.

"Oh," groaned the patient, "it's an awful pain in the back of my neck. It's horrible, I tell you. Absolutely awful."

The interne nodded sympathetically.

"Too mad," he said. "How long have you had this pain?"

The emergency patient shrugged his shoulders.

"Ten years," he replied . . .

Mother Love Fierce in Stanley

By MARGARET RUSSELL

A strange phase of mother love, one that is rarely discussed with frankness, is portrayed by Henrietta Crosman in "Pilgrimage" at the Stanley this week. Her interpretation of ruthless, fiercely possessive mother love is stark and real.

Hannah Jessop loved her son. No other woman should ever have him, if she could help it. When the inevitable happened and she saw him slipping away from her into the arms of a neighbor lass, she had him drafted to the war. When she signed the waiver in the recruiting office, she signed his death warrant as well. He never came home.

But he left behind him a waiting girl, and eventually a son who did not bear his name. Did Hannah Jessop turn to this child of her own flesh and blood for consolation? She did not. She tended her farm like a man and gathered in mortgages among her crops. For 10 long years she nursed her bitterness and became harder than ever before.

Then, almost against her will, she went to France with a group of Gold Star Mothers, and there a miracle happened. But you mustn't be told what it was, or you won't enjoy seeing the picture. You won't enjoy it, anyway, unless you are a realist. It is made of stern, almost morbid stuff. Not that Hannah Jessop was morbid. She was too busy and too hard to languish in morbidity. But there was a softness underneath. It only wanted finding.

Norman Foster plays the part of the rebellious, restless son with a nice sense of the awkwardness and eagerness of a youth bound to the soil of a small Arkansas farm. Marion Nixon is wistful and appealing in the role of the girl he left behind.

But neither are very important to "Pilgrimage" except to provide motivation for the powerful drama of a mother's heart.

Short features include a comedy, "The Double Crossing of Columbus," an Oswald Cartoon and Pathe News.

Show Storm Scenes on Screen

Thrilling pictures of the terrific storm, the worst in many years, that lashed the Atlantic seaboard, are presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, with a graphic description by the Globe-Trotter. The most remarkable of the scenes are those from Seabright, N. J., which shows the great waves bursting over the sea wall and crushing pretty cottages and bungalows. There are also sensational scenes from New England resorts, many of which were hard hit.

Gen. Balbo's return to Rome with his air armada is brought to the screen in spectacular pictures. Headed by Mussolini, a vast crowd greets the armada at the airport upon the completion of the 12,000-mile flight. Then follows the march of triumph through ancient Rome under the Constantine Arch to Palatine Hill, where Balbo is decorated.

President Roosevelt receives a vociferous reception as he visits the Boy Scouts camp at Narrowsburg, N. Y. The President tells the boys that everybody in America will finally be under the banner of the NRA. Al Smith is then heard in a radio talk in New York City in which he urges the nation to back the President's recovery movement to the last man.

(Note—Owing to the necessity upon the theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.)

Youngsters Should Respect Rights of Each Other

Why does the boy friend make cutting remarks to Ruth in front of folks?

And—since he does it, shall she marry him? Or shall she break, while the breaking's good?

She can't figure it out. They can't seem to get along with each other, but neither can they seem to stay apart. So—what? Have you an answer?

Dear Elsie:

I would like your opinion about a problem I have. I hope you can help me, because my whole future depends on getting it settled the right way.

When I was 20, I met a boy with whom I used to go to school. We fell in love, immediately. Before that, I had had quite a few boy friends, but never thought seriously of love.

Well, we got along fine for six months. Then, he told me he no longer cared for me, and we parted. I thought a lot of him, and was heart-broken. Then, a long time afterward, he told me he had never stopped loving me, but was in debt, and didn't want to tell me until it was cleared up.

After that, he phoned me, but for about a week I didn't seem interested in him at all. Then, to my surprise, my love for him all seemed to come back. But even then, things weren't quite the same. He wasn't earning much, and we couldn't go out very often. So having nothing else to do, we seemed to argue, over nothing. Finally, I began going out with the other boys, which led to more arguments, as he didn't like that. Then he went out with another girl, who made a fool of him. He said he never loved her.

BECAME SARCASTIC

Now, we are going together again. He has a better position, and we're able to go out more often, but he has acquired the habit of saying things that cut to the quick, in the presence of others.

We planned to marry, but I am wondering, after three and a half years like we've had, if we should, and if it will always be like this. Maybe I'm too sensitive, but the things he says do hurt.

He really is a fine boy, and has lots of nice friends, and when we "go places" he treats me very well. He sends me flowers, etc.

Do you think we would get along? Or that we'll always argue over silly things? We have stopped seeing each other, at different times, but we always come back. We can't seem to get along, either with, or without, each other. Have you any suggestions? Why has he gotten sarcastic, like he has? RUTH B.

Will you "always argue over silly things?"

You will unless you learn to use your head, Sissy! You probably do care for each other, or you wouldn't gravitate back together, in spite of snapping at each other. But it would be a pretty bad bargain for both of you, if you married, and kept on snapping.

EACH HAS RIGHTS

Why do you do that? I suspect it's because you're each of you childish and conceited enough to try to make the other over—to make the other think just as you think. And that can't be done. Trying to do it is not only foolish, but unfair.

He has a right to his opinions.

You have a right to yours.

No two people ever think just alike. And life together would be dull as dishwater if they did. If you're going to go on together, you'll have to learn to really respect each other's rights. You'll have to learn that each of you has a right to be different from the other . . . and to enjoy each other's differentness. Unless you can do that, you'd better give up the idea of marrying, because if you're going to pick each other to pieces, marriage will be a great, big, homemade hell.

And now—why does he make cutting remarks to you, in front of other folks? Probably because you've stung him, until he lashes out at you where he figures it will sting you.

So—think it over, Ruth . . . and "try a little tenderness!"

'THE THREE GRACES'

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

There was a hectic era of femininity not so long ago when I could not have made any picture labeled with this old-fashioned title and even touched the flying garments of TRUTH. For two reasons. First, because the "12-year-old" short skirts that women wore could not by any artistry be made to bear the name of GRACE. Funny, yes; cute, that too; shocking, oh yes, la, la!—but never graceful. No. Reason number two: The flat girl-boy figure, attained by natural means, or made, though graceful, was too unlike any of the paintings or sculptures one remembered of "The Three Graces." Not rounded enough, in the way that sculpture had taught us the woman-figure usually was. We couldn't get a picture of our "Three Graces" by any means at all, not with the flapper—now passed on—figure and dress that we were given to do it with.

But now! Sit in the corner of any lighted and partly-flushed drawing room, with your little lace hankie in one hand and your hot mushroom on a toothpick in the other, or if you are a man, not far from the perfumed shoulder of a lady with a lace hankie in one hand and a hot mushroom on a toothpick in the other; yourself with something perhaps more hearty, and use your photographic artist eye. On the Fair Women in the room. Myself, it delights me. This fashion that has seemingly come to stay—in women.

Long gowns that flutter around feet that look tinier under the sunburst of satin or lace! Groups of figures together, swaying and turning, like flowers of nymphs, many-colored, and white and black! Every woman improved by the more womanly figure and the mystery of a flowing skirt. Every woman falling heiress to more grace and elegance along with her gown. For women are strange that way. They can grow a quality that goes with a gown—over night. Honestly, too. I wonder if men would grow more gallant, fiercer, more swashbuckling, more greedy of peril and adventure, if they should undertake velvet and lace and a feather in their hats again. We never have a chance to see a man change his manner and his shape, along with new fashions, we women—not in our life time!

At a party in the summer of this year I see not one three-some of GRACES, but many clusters of Three Graces, like flower beds on a California lawn.

Grace; what a beautiful word! Birch trees are graceful, and deer.

And the 1933 woman. NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Thanks for Good Wishes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have recently become engaged and I am receiving a number of letters and telegrams of congratulations. Is it necessary to acknowledge these? C.

Yes. Write a gracious and appreciative note to each of these kind friends, thanking for the thoughtfulness and for the good wishes. And write them as promptly as possible, so that, in your acknowledgment, you catch the glow of your delight in receiving the message.

The Guest's Privilege

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a person or a couple stop by to take me to a party, is it correct for me to suggest when we leave, or should they suggest that we be on our way?

Recently my parents and a sister were visiting me and a doctor and his wife were to stop at my apartment and take my sister and myself to a party. We were not quite ready when they arrived, so after I introduced them to my parents, and they were seated, I left the room and finished getting ready. I then returned to the room with my guests, and we all sat there and visited until quite late, when the doctor suggested that we had better be going to the party.

My sister insists that I was in error by not saying that I was ready when I returned to the room, but I feel that they were my guests in my home and they should say when they were ready to leave. S.

Your point of view about this is sound, for these friends were guests in your home and should be given the privilege of saying when they wished to start. They probably were having such a good time that they preferred to stay! It was so obvious that you were ready, when you returned to the room, that it certainly wasn't necessary for you to say that you were.

The Wedding Cake

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I hope to be a winter bride, and I feel the need of your helpful advice. My wedding is to be very quiet and informal.

1—My trouble seems to center around the wedding cake. Will you please help me? When the bride cuts the cake, which layer does she cut? Does she cut it, or only insert the knife?

2—In sending out little boxes of cake to friends, how soon after the wedding should they be sent? Should the cards accompanying the cake be written or engraved, and what should be on them? CLAIRE.

1—Usually the bride cuts the first piece of cake, cutting entirely through the layers. Often she cuts the entire cake, especially at the informal kind of wedding that you say yours is to be. This is a particularly charming gesture on the part of the bride, and of course especially pleases the guests, since they like to have the bride cut the entire cake. It causes much gaiety and much delightful conversation.

2—It is very much better form, more cosmopolitan form, to give a box of wedding cake to each guest at the wedding reception, rather than to send the boxes. However, if you especially wish to mail these boxes to your friends, they should be sent as soon after the wedding as possible. It would not be necessary to have special cards engraved for this. Send with each a small note, or a message written in the back of your visiting card.

Contract Bridge

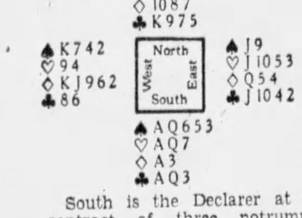
HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Forced Lead Plays

Many hands occur where apparently a finesse is needed for the game-going trick. The Declarer who attempts this finesse and fails is strongly inclined to bemoan his luck. If there was no other course available, his bemoaning is justified. However, it often occurs that the finesse may be avoided by compelling opponents to lead a suit for you. This, of course, can only occur when a correct count can be made of their hands and when the Declarer can see that no other course is open to the adversary or that it is the only course which promises success.

The hand below is an illustration:



South is the Declarer at a contract of three notrump. West's Opening lead is the diamond 6, and South, applying the Rule of Eleven, knows that East holds only one card higher than the 6. This knowledge, while interesting, is not of particular importance, however, as the Declarer has only 1 trick in the suit and obviously cannot prevent its immediate establishment.

South's longest suit is spades, but an attempt to establish the spades requires a successful finesse and the loss of a trick in any event—and with established diamonds in the West hand, South cannot afford to permit his opponents to obtain the lead at this time. But if South finds an even division in either the heart or club suit, the success of his contract is assured, as he can then win 9 tricks before permitting either opponent to obtain the lead.

He therefore leads the Ace and Queen of clubs from his own hand and follows with a small club. On the third lead of clubs West discards, so South realizes that the attempt to cash 4 club tricks has failed. There still remains a chance in the heart suit, and a small heart is led from Dummy, which is won with the Ace. The Queen of hearts is now led, and the third round of hearts discloses that West originally held only two hearts and two clubs. Therefore he is marked with length in spades as well as diamonds.

South does not yet give up, however, but reviews the situation. He has thus far won 7 tricks and if West held only 5 diamonds originally, he can still make his contract, regardless of the location of the spade King. Therefore, from the Dummy at this time he correctly leads a diamond, and thus avoids the necessity of taking the spade finesse, which, as a matter of fact, would lose. West now proceeds to run his three established diamonds, upon which South discards the 6, 5 and 3 of spades.

At the twelfth trick, however, West, lacking any other suit, is compelled to lead a spade up to South's major tenace. This play is not at all uncommon, and its execution frequently permits the fulfilment of contracts otherwise unattainable. The reader will find it beneficial to his game to study the hand illustrated with care, so that whenever occasion presents he may be prepared to apply the principle.

The principle has a broader application than the mere forcing of a lead to a tenace. Sometimes at suit declarations it may be used to force the lead of a card, which will permit the declarer to trump in one hand and discard a loser in the other. When a play is used for this purpose, it is, of course, essential that the player forced to make the lead be stripped of cards in other suits which would permit him safe exit from his hand.

Today's Question

Neither side vulnerable.
The bidding:

South	North
1 ♠	2 ♠
2 NT	?

You, North, hold:

♠ K 8 7 3 2 ♡ J 9 4 ◇ A 5 ♣ Q 4 3

What do you bid?

Answer: Three notrump. Although on the face of it this bid may seem unusual and even eccentric, the percentages are more than in favor it. Your partner has heard you support one spade and knows that you probably have at least four of that suit, although you might have only three. By his two notrump bid he tells you that he has a balanced hand and probably not much more than a minimum. Even though you hold five of partner's suit, your hand is also balanced in pattern and contains an honor in each of the side suits. Although it is conceivable that the hand will play one trick better at spades due to the ruffing power in Dummy, there is also a very strong possibility that the hand may produce only nine tricks regardless of what declaration it is played at. There is no advantage in having some ruffing power in Dummy if the Declarer's own hand contains no short suits. From the bidding it is very likely that with five spade tricks you should be able to make four tricks in the side suits and thereby fulfil a three-notrump contract, while it is more than possible that there will be four losers in the hand if played at spades.

Household Hints

Babies' woolies will be delightfully soft if a dessertspoon of olive oil is added to the warm lather in which they are washed.

White cotton frocks are apt to turn gray if washed in hard water, and turn yellow if soap remains in them. Therefore always rinse in two or three lots of water, and soften washing and rinsing water, if necessary, by adding a little borax which has been dissolved in boiling water. A tablespoon of borax to a quart of water is ample.

Instead of telling your child to stop what he is doing, suggest something else which he would like to do instead. When he has picked up an article you don't want him to have, hold out to him something else which will engage his interest before you try to get him to relinquish what he holds. In this way you will get through the day with as few "don't" as possible.

Dicky's Continued Failure to Explain Peeves Madge

There was a good-humored twinkle in Lillian's eyes as she asked me why I did not telephone Philip Veritzen from The Larches, which continued through her further gibing query as to Hugh Grantland or Lee Chow "sparing me a phone." I am used to her sly jesting concerning Hugh, though she is scrupulously careful not to indulge in it when a third person is present, but I was not in a particularly complaisant mood.

"Why should I go to The Larches when Mrs. Ticer's is nearer, and she doesn't mind being troubled?" I asked, and was conscious that my voice was distinctly cross.

But Lillian was imperturbable.

"Not a reason in the world, except that you might consider it your duty to spread sweetness and light over The Larches," she retorted with a wide, unabashed grin. "It would be a swell Girl Scout good deed for your day, to cheer that place up. The last time I was over there it dripped more gloom than a gangster's funeral. But if you'd rather go to Ticer's, why, to Ticer's you shall go. Will you travel by airplane, motor car or wheelbarrow? All, all are at your service."

No grouch is proof against Lillian's cheery nonsense. I smiled at her contritely.

"Forgive me," I said. "I'm not fit for decent society today. I'm so cross."

"Well! You have a right to be, if anybody has, I'll tell the world," she retorted. "One more session with your mother-in-law and I expect to have a funeral here—yours—instead of a wedding. Anybody would think she was the bride instead of Mary. But you haven't told me what conveyance you prefer. Shall I tell Jim to bring the wheelbarrow around to the side steps?"

"No, I think I'll take the motor," I said.

THINKS OF EDITH

"Shall I ask Dicky or Harry to drive you, or would you like me as a chauffeur?"

"No, nobody," I returned hastily. "You simply must be here if——"

"If your mother-in-law goes haywire again," she finished, with a gamin-like grin.

"I can guess your objections to the other two. You couldn't ask Harry without appearing to ignore the Dicky bird, and that canary is still pecking crossly at the cuttlebone instead of singing; n'est ce pas?"

"I'd prefer not to ask him a favor," I said, a bit stiffly; for not even to Lillian could I speak of the endless pin pricks that had been mine during the enforced companionship into which Dicky and I had been thrust by the hurried preparations for Mary's wedding.

By tacit and mutual consent, neither of us had referred again to the incident of the telephone message from the mysterious "Floss," nor had Dicky ever asked me the subject of Edith Fairfax's interview.

But ever present in my mind, not to be banished even by the bustle of wedding preparations, was the look on Edith Fairfax's face when she told me that I had "refused to hear anything about a woman who's going to make you head for Reno or a trial for homicide," and had followed up that reference to "Floss" by warning me that she would not be responsible for what she would do, if Dicky should sell out his share of the magazine and leave her with some partner of whom she knew nothing.

DOESN'T WANT ESCORT

I could understand neither reference, except to be sure that they both meant trouble for Dicky and me. However, until Dicky himself brought the ugly things into the open, I could do or say nothing. But I strongly resented the pettishness—and jettiness—with which he had treated me ever since the day of Edith's call and the telephone message from "Floss."

I came out of my reverie to find Lillian looking at me curiously.

"If you'll come out of the silence and name your wishes, I'll endeavor to do an imitation of fairy godmother waving her wand," she said.

With an effort that cost me much, I shook off my dolor and smiled at her.

"If you'll ask Jim to bring my small car around to the door, I'll drive over to Mrs. Ticer's myself," I said.

"Don't get delusions of grandeur," she cautioned, looking at my cane significantly.

"I'm not," I told her emphatically, "but I'm tired of being an invalid. I could throw this thing away, only that I know you all feel safer when I'm using it. But I surely do not need an escort to go to Mrs. Ticer's."

As if the name had charm to evoke its owner, I saw through the window my sturdy neighbor coming up the walk, and heard through the window her rather high-pitched voice in salutation to Katie, busy with hanging curtains in the room next the library.

"Hello! Katie, is your telephone working? Mine's gone out of commission, and I've got to telephone to Bridgehampton."

Tantrums Become a Habit

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

The two-year-old boy had legs that were decidedly bowed and the mother had her family physician put steel braces on the child.

During the period in which the boy wore the braces he developed a temper that was anything but sweet. We can hardly criticize him too much for that, for he undoubtedly was anything but comfortable. However, the mother instead of trying to keep him occupied and as busy and happy as possible during that time treated him just as she might have a child who had no such obstacle to cope with.

When he first screamed in a mighty rage at the hard, stiff things on his legs, she merely walked away, left him in his crib to scream, and scream he did . . . and does yet, even though the braces have long since been removed.

For the mother allowed the tantrums to become a habit.

And there are other mothers who fall into the same error, even when the child has no such excuse for developing a scratchy temper.

Once you let a child get away with a tantrum, let him get furious and indulge his primitive emotions with no effort on your part to face the issue, discover why he feels so angry, then help him to control his anger, you may rest assured that he is going to repeat the outburst.

Don't let your child get the bad-temper habit. Settle his problems with him intelligently. Let him then forget the unpleasant occasion and cultivate the sporting attitude of being agreeable even when he doesn't always feel that way.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

A lovely sight is a jacket and frock of that new pebbled off-white crepe, the color of a gardenia. One of these suits has unpressed box pleats and the jacket has a large bunch of gardenias scented with the lovely perfume of that flower.

A constant wish is for the frock that can be worn out or at an afternoon party with equal success. Such a model is done in fine candy striped navy blue and white chiffon. The bodice bertha and the skirt flounce, which is arranged in battlemented design, are both finely pleated.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Mucous Colitis Rare Abroad

It is interesting to learn that Europeans are subject to certain diseases which are rarely seen in this country. But we have ailments that rarely afflict our neighbors across the sea. For example, the disease called "mucous colitis," frequently encountered here, is seldom seen abroad.

Dr. Copeland

It is probable that our different manner of living may be responsible for this affliction. Indeed it is seldom heard of in communities where living conditions are simple and unhurried. No one will deny that Americans are always in "a great rush" in their work, with subsequent harm to their bodies.

Mucous colitis, as its name implies, is an inflammation of the colon or large portion of the intestine. It is caused by an infection. Normally, a great number of bacteria are found in the colon and other parts of the large intestine. They do not harm the body and as a rule we are unaware of their presence. But if for any reason the walls of the intestine are irritated, or there is a lowering of the resistance of the body against these bacteria, inflammation occurs.

The sufferer from mucous colitis complains of pronounced abdominal colicky pain. The pain may be so severe as to be confused with appendicitis or some other inflammatory ailment.

Bear in mind that mucous colitis is a serious disturbance and should never be neglected. Too often the disease is treated with home remedies and not given the care it demands.

The disturbance is often traced to a focus of infection somewhere in the body. It may be found in diseased teeth, tonsils, gall-bladder, the nasal sinuses or the appendix.

The victim of mucous colitis should have a diet that contains very little roughage and the food taken should be easily digested. The diet should contain little meat. It is beneficial to include a liberal use of acidophilus milk and cottage cheese. Fried and greasy foods, salts, peppers, spices and condiments should be omitted. The vegetables and cereals should be thoroughly cooked and carefully strained before eating.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. J. A. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—Eat very sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Exercise is most important. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

Fan. Q.—Is there any way to increase the height

A.—No.

J. B. Q.—What do you advise for cold feet?

A.—This is probably due to poor circulation. Build up the general health and your circulation will improve.

X. Q.—What do you advise for nervousness?

A.—Try to build up the general health and this will benefit the entire nervous system.

Q.—What do you advise for pellagra?

A.—The patient should be under the care of a doctor.

WEEK'S STEEL PRODUCTION RECEDES

By B. E. V. LUTY

There have been many conferences, with hard work. Obviously it was necessary to confer, for if one producer filed a higher price than competitors he would be out of the market. His customers would not patronize him, and he would have to file a revised price, then waiting 10 days before selling at his lower price. It is improbable that any prices will be divulged, even if determined, until the whole schedule is completed next Tuesday.

The prices thus filed will virtually be fourth-quarter prices as existing contracts are recognized, and buyers are well covered by them. They terminate with unusual quickness, as they stipulate that specifications against them shall be filed in time for completion of deliveries by September 30, whereas the former practice was to require specifications merely to the end of the quarter, shipments to be completed by the middle of the ensuing month. The prospect is that should there be a marked advance in any particular line specifying against present contracts would be stimulated.

Never in the history of the steel trade has the rate of production failed so completely to indicate the rate of actual ultimate consumption as in the last three months. It is a matter of degree for often buyers have stocked up, causing production to rise more than consumption, but never in such large degree. At other times they liquidated stocks, causing production to run below consumption, but now there is no attempt to estimate how much liquidation, if any, there is.

AUTO SCHEDULES UP

The recent declining tendency in automobile production appears to be partly or wholly arrested, some makers having increased their schedules.

The steel market has been extremely dull in the past week. While there may be some belated summer dullness as an influence the visible influence is procedure in connection with the code, under which prices are to be filed by next Tuesday.

Production of steel is declining, chiefly on account of disappearance of the influence which caused it to mount with such remarkable celerity. The greater part of business placed in anticipation of higher prices has now been executed. In several finished products operations began to decrease late in July. The backlog business seems to be holding out better than was expected, especially so since there has been so little new business lately.

Production of steel ingots this week may be estimated at not over 49 per cent of capacity at the outside, representing five points drop from last week and 10 points from the high level prevailing during the greater part of July. Steel appeared to be very active in the latter part of June when this week's rate was reached on the upgrade, so it is a logical inference that further decreases should be expected. There is no decrease in actual ultimate consumption that would account for more than a small fraction of the decrease now occurring in production.

CODE PRICES TUESDAY

As the iron and steel industry's code of fair competition was approved last Saturday night and becomes effective after 10 days, the individual producers have until next Tuesday to file their prices with the American Iron and Steel Institute. Hard work is necessary to formulate a rounded-out schedule as a compromise must be struck between recent prices and prices that would fully avoid loss, for in some lines the cost basis would dictate stiff advances and in other lines none at all. The decrease began three months after the usual time and observers are at sea regarding the future.

Railroad buying remains of virtually no consequence from the viewpoint of tonnage. The steel trade thinks resumption of railroad buying on a substantial scale depends upon Washington. Traffic has been increasing and financial statements improving, but both had a long way to go.

Fabricated structural steel lettings continue to run very light and there is no definite information as to when large tonnages in connection with the federal program will come out and eventually help steel mill operations.

The scrap market has been stagnant in the past week on account of declining steel production and concentration of interest upon the iron and steel code. Dealers insist that on account of higher costs under their own code no decline in market prices should be considered.

Ohio Oil Company Lifts Crude Prices

FINDLAY, O., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The Ohio Oil Company today announced a general 10-cent increase in crude oil prices in the Central West and Wyoming fields, except Rock Creek, which was advanced 12 cents.

The new prices: Central West—Lima, 95 cents; Illinois, 87 cents; Princeton, 87 cents; Western Kentuckey, 82 cents.

Wyoming—Elk Basin, 82 cents; Grass Creek light, 82 cents; Big Muddy, 65 cents; Rock Creek, 66 cents; Sunburst, $1.

Canada Feed Stock Situation Serious

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26.—Western Canada's stock feed situation is serious and, in fact, is the worst since Canada has had any large livestock population for 30 years or more, according to a Winnipeg Free Press survey. Bank Credit Becomes Major Recovery Problem

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE NEED FOR opening the channels of bank credit has become one of the major recovery problems. The administration is renewing efforts to make it possible for industry to secure sufficient funds to finance its operations as production expands.

This is being reflected in the increased purchase of United States government securities by the Federal Reserve Banks. The system tripled the rate of its purchases during the week ended last Wednesday.

A total of $35,000,000 of treasury notes and bills was added to the holdings of the reserve banks. This compared with an average weekly rate of purchases of $10,000,000 since the middle of July when the rate was dropped from about $20,000,000.

The Reserve system cut down its purchases during the period when security prices appeared to be rising too fast and commodities were surging upward at a pace threatening increases in retail prices which might have destroyed the effect of expanding purchasing power.

* * *

Purchases May Add To Money Circulation

THE FEDERAL RESERVE banks are operating on the theory that their purchases of securities will increase the amount of money in circulation. The money paid for the securities will be deposited in banks and this should increase their liquidity and make them more willing to grant loans.

This action is to be accompanied by appeals to the banks for more liberal policies in lending money to finance industry and commerce. Until recently the banks were suffering from such a bad case of the jitters as a result of the nationwide holiday that little could be done in this direction. Now it is felt that confidence in banks has been sufficiently restored to permit a gradual return to normal conditions.

* * *

Banks Subject To Criticism

ALL THROUGH the depression and up to the present time the banks have been severely criticised for calling loans and for their niggardly policies in extending new loans. Many businessmen have been bitter in their comments about bankers and have blamed them for a large share of the nation's troubles.

But there is another side to the question. The hard boiled bankers who were most criticised are usually among those whose institutions are still running. Too many bankers who conducted their business in accordance with the ideas of their clients now find their institutions undergoing liquidation or still unlicensed to open. The tough bankers who insisted on liquidity are more likely to be remembered in the future as saints than as devils.

While at the end of the bank holiday the administration insisted on bank liquidity, it now is taking the attitude that the emergency has passed and that banks can resume their normal functions. The weak sisters have been closed, reorganized or remain unlicensed. Deflation of values has come to an end. Business is on the upgrade. Public confidence has been restored and the danger of runs is over. These developments, the administration appears to believe, make it safe for bankers to reduce liquidity and to lend money.

As a further stimulus to the extension of credit, it is being made known that government agencies will extend increased aid to banks and that they expect the banks to make use of it when such a step will add to business activity.

SHOE DEALERS EXPECT PRICE INCREASES

Shoe prices, two Pittsburgh shoe dealers said today, are due for abrupt increases.

Already, they explained, they are finding higher prices in the wholesale market, and warned that the public should buy now to save money.

Raw materials entering into the product have registered large advances in cost, labor prices are increasing as new codes are filed daily, and the dealers are paying more for merchndise their shoes.

Samuel A. Bliman, district manager of the Kirby shoe stores, said:

"In the wholesale shoe market, we are back to 1930 prices now and will be back to 1928 prices before long. Manufacturers say they cannot tell what goods should sell for on account of rapid changes in labor costs and raw materials.

"We are trying to sell shoes as cheap as possible, and the replacement of some of our stock will cost us more than we are selling it for now.

"In the low priced field, one line of shoes is selling 60 per cent higher wholesale than it did at the low point. On an average the market is up about 40 per cent. Leather is higher and payrolls are increased 25 per cent under the codes."

David H. Abrams, buyer for the W. M. Laird Company store, Liberty avenue, said:

"I would say that shoes will cost $1 a pair more, conservatively speaking, in the next two months, due to an increase in labor and material. Shoe cartons alone have gone up 200 per cent and our overhead costs us 5 per cent more due to the 40-hour week and the hiring of more help. Our present selling price has not been base on the replacement cost, for our present stock is being sold at the old price."

FOREIGN BUYING LIFTS COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Cotton futures opened firm, 9 to 12 points advance on higher Liverpool cables and commission house and foreign buying. October, 9.74; December, 9.97; January, 10.09; March, 10.24; May, 10.39; July, 10.54.

Houses with Liverpool connections were among the most active buyers at the opening, but after this demand and the overnight buying orders through commission houses had been supplied, prices eased under Southern selling, realizing or liquidation.

December contracts which had advanced to 9.99 on the early demand eased off to 9.81 or about 6 points below yesterday's closing quotations, but the selling then tapered off and the market held fairly steady at the end of the first half hour within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 26.—Cotton, 4,000 bales, American nil. Spot quiet; prices 14 points higher; quotations in pence; American strict good middling 6.39; good middling 6.09; strict middling 5.79; middling 5.67; strict low middling 5.49; low middling 5.29; strict good ordinary 5.09; good ordinary 4.79. SUN OIL RAISES PRICE 25C

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The Sun Oil Company announced a 25-cent increase in the price of crude oil in Texas and Oklahoma, topping the 10-cent advance posted by a number of other companies. The new schedule called for 75-cent oil in East Texas.

Reserve Credit Program Backing Up NRA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The Federal Reserve Board intends that its expansion of contraction of credit through bank purchases of government securities "shall be governed with a view to accommodating commerce and business and with regard to the general credit situation of the country."

Consequently, it was held unofficially today that there is not likely to be, soon, a sizeable decrease in the amount of money the twelve central reserve banks spend in "open market" operations — purchasing government securities.

The banks stepped their purchases up to $35,000,000 last week from $11,000,000 the week before.

Besides issuing this general statement of open market policy, the reserve board in its regular monthly bulletin took a look at business conditions in April, May and June—before the NRA got well under way. It found:

"A rapid rise in business activity and a sharp advance in commodity and security prices. Industrial production increased from 60 per cent of the 1923-25 average at the end of the first quarter to about 95 per cent in July.

"Employment has expanded at a much slower rate than production, as is usual in the early stages of recovery, since giving more work to those already on the payroll precedes the hiring of new workers. More than 1,500,000 persons were re-employed during the second quarter—but the number still idle in June approximated 11,000,000.

"The rapid increase in activity was due in part to anticipation of further advance in commodity prices and of the effects of such impending developments as the reduction of hours and wages under the new codes and the imposition of processing taxes under the agricultural adjustment act."

Since this period covered in this report, Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, has been seeking to overcome some of the conditions found by the Reserve Board.

He decided several weeks ago that production was going up too fast for wages and re-employment. Since then, may industries have been put under permanent or temporary agreements reducing working hours, so as to provide more jobs, and fixing minimum pay rates.

NRA officials held today that the application of these agreements was bringing payrolls and production nearer the same line and that a national survey now would show considerably fewer than 11,000,000 unemployed.

The open market committee will continue to watch conditions closely. It must, under regulations promulgated for it by the board, meet four time a year—or "oftener if deemed necessary."

Stock Exchanges On Special Holiday

Stock exchanges throughout the country were closed today in accordance with the summer schedule put into effect by the New York Stock Exchange several weeks ago. The Chicago Board of Trade and the New York Cotton Exchange were open for the usual Saturday hours.

$60,000 A YEAR TOP RAIL PAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Joseph B. Eastman, railroad co-ordinator, said today railroad executives had indicated a willingness to reduce salaries so that $60,000 will be the maximum as compared with a peak maximum within the last five years of $150,000.

Eastman said this figure somewhat "exceeds the maximum which was in my mind," explaining the maximum pay during the World War was $50,000. But he added:

"Upon consideration, however, I do not regard the situation as one which justifies an order on my part, for the amounts involved are relatively insignificant."

Eastman said he would leave the matter in the hands of the three regional co-ordinating committees or railroad executives.

WORLD WHEAT PACT SIGNED

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—An international agreement designed to balance the supply and demand of wheat and to stabilize its price at a higher level was hailed today as a salvage from the wrecked World Economic Conference.

Twenty-one nations signed the pact, under which 63.08 United States cents in gold (currently 89 cents) a bushel was set as the price of wheat for four months, whereupon importing countries will lower tariffs.

Frederick E. Murphy, American representative at the conference of representatives of 31 countries, said:

"We feel certain we have made the greatest single move which could be achieved for the restoration of world prosperity."

Argentina's representative, Tomas A. Lebreton, was not present at the meeting last night when the signatures were affixed, but on Monday he will add his name to the list which includes the other major wheat exporters, the United States, Australia and Canada.

CAR LOADINGS UP 12,086

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Loading of revenue freight in the week ended August 19 totaled 634,845 cars, an increase of 12,086 cars over the preceding week and a gain of 116,405 compared with the corresponding period in 1932, according to the American Railway Association.

Bankers With Big Hearts Sought By Uncle Sam

—By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER—

The government has ordered bankers to get big-hearted, generous and kindly.

The only way a banker would take a dose like that is by a mistake in the dark.

If he felt big-hearted, he wouldn't know whether to consult his lawyer or his doctor.

When the government tampers with a banker's heart, it is taking two bites at a cherry.

You cannot expect them to give us an extra hour of daylight on the time lock of their money vaults. The bankers have taken so much paper lately they would fall for two reliable signatures on a picnic pie plate.

They haven't seen any gold since they held buttercups under their chins in childhood's happy hours.

Being generous an entire forty-hour week is too long. The best the bankers can do is to be minute men.

WHEAT REACTS AFTER JUMP

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Spurred by actual signing of an agreement at the London wheat conference and by strength in Liverpool wheat, grain prices today moved higher in a flurry of buying at the opening.

The buying wave, as usual of late, quickly spent itself and prices declined.

Wheat opened ⅝@1⅜ cents higher and moved jerkily just below the opening level. Corn started ⅛@¾ cent higher and later dropped below yesterday's finish.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A further change for the better, over the earlier figures for August, appears in the latest report of bank clearings. The total this week at all leading cities in the United States, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., of $4,134,378,000 was 12.7 per cent higher than the amount a year ago. At New York City, clearings were $2,850,487,000, an increase of 16.8 per cent. While the aggregate for centers outside of New York of $1,283,891,000 was 4.4 per cent above that of last year.

Clearings at New York City again are relatively higher, compared with a year ago, than in the first two weeks of the month. There also was a substantial increase this week at Chicago, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha, Atlanta, Richmond, Dallas, Louisville, Portland and Seattle. The decline at Baltimore, while still quite large, was less severe than in preceding weeks, while Detroit and Cleveland also made a much better showing. Clearings this week are $354,183,000 below those of last week; a year ago the decline was $442,862,000. Some reduction in the third week of August from the second week of the month is quite usual.

Figures at leading centers showing increases and decreases as compared with those of last year, are printed herewith; also, daily bank clearings each month for the year to date:

SMOKE CLOUDS SHRINK HERE

Pollution of the air above Pittsburgh, despite the return of prosperity, is being gradually lessened by the educational campaign of the Bureau of Smoke Regulation, H. B. Meller, director, said today. "Smog" will continue until domestic heating plants are regulated by law, he said.

Explaining the diminishing smoke clouds, he remarked:

"Gradually we are diminishing this phase of air pollution by education, teaching people how to fire and what fuels to use."

Before the depression, he said, factories "co-operated willingly, as a rule, after they learned the saving of efficient combustion."

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Plymouth Oil Company reports for the first six months of this year a deficit of $57,214 after deductions for depreciation and depletion. For the same period in 1932, net income amounted to $946,500, after deductions for depreciation and depletion but before federal income taxes.

For the first six months of 1933 the company produced 2,300,340 barrels of crude oil and the average price received was 41 cents per barrel. For the same period in 1932, the average price was 37 cents.

Mother Lode Coalition Mines Company report for six months ended June 30, shows profit of $4,182, based upon 1,804,041 pounds of copper sold and after deducting estimated taxes and shut-down expense. No mention is made of depreciation. There was no production from the mines during the period. For the first half of 1932 the company reported a loss of $40,308 after crediting value of silver content and deducting taxes and adjusting unsold copper to market, but before depreciation and depletion.

Atlantic Refining Company and subsidiaries report for six months ended June 30, last, shows net loss of $1,001,659, after taxes and charges, against net profit of $3,184,824 in first half of 1932.

The statement as of June 30 last, showed current assets including $13,569,282 cash and marketable securities of $38,655,944 and current liabilities of $5,264,827. This compares with cash and marketable securities of $6,187,115, current assets of $42,045,341 and current liabilities of $7,029,240 on June 30, 1932.

Niagara Hudson Power Corporation and subsidiaries report for 12 months ended June 30, showed net income of $6,199,991, after taxes, depreciation subsidiary preferred dividends, etc., equal to 71 cents a share on 8,737,651 outstanding shares. This compares with net of $12,791,871, or $1.46 a share on 8,717,791 shares, for 12 months ended June 30, 1932.

Kelly-Springfield Tire Company reports net loss of $744,267 for the six months ended June 30, contrasting with net profit of $57,101 in the first half of last year.

Exchange Buffet Corporation report for the quarter ended July 31 last shows net loss of $39,423 after depreciation and taxes, compared with net loss of $28,464 in the corresponding quarter last year.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 26.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

California has a murder trial going on out here now (some professor is supposed to have killed his wife). You all know when your home town papers can scare up a good murder trial, that's just like striking pay dirt. So I don't know what Hugh Johnson is doing with the auto code, how Secretary Wallace of Agriculture is making out trying to keep pigs from growing up, what Cordell Hull is doing toward making international conferences useful as well as decorative, what Secretary of Labor Miss Perkins is doing to see that everything in the NRA is not unionized, or is unionized, or whatever they decide to do with it.

Will Rogers

As I say, we got a murder trial, and we don't know a thing in the world that is happening outside of that, so pardon my ignorance.

Yours, WILL.

PRESBYTERIANS REPORT LOSS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A one-year net loss of 41,087 in communicant membership for the fiscal year ending March 31, was reported by the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. last night.

One reason for the drop, the office of the denomination's General Assembly said, was the fact that no Easter season was included in the last fiscal year. It was explained that at Easter time there is usually an ingathering of members.

Another factor, it said, was the removal of 82,448 names from the communicant membership rolls for failure to conform to requirements.

The communicant membership of the church was announced as 1,968,788. New members received on profession of faith totaled 65,022; on certificate from other churches, 39,483; former members restored to communicant rolls, 9,665.

Contributions of the local churches totaled $38,643,203, the report showed, and there was a reduction of $9,002,517 in congregational expenditures.

The denomination had churches numbering 9,172 in every state, and there were 9,893 ordained clergymen.

FLOOD CONTROL GROUP TO MEET

An expected report from Army engineers will be discussed at a meeting of the committee to advance the $57,500,000 flood control proposal for a federal grant, in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association at 1 p. m. Tuesday.

The committee was named at a conference Wednesday of tri-state territory municipal authorities. The conference was called by Mayor John S. Herron to coordinate support back of flood control proposals.

Dividends

International Petroleum Company, Limited Notice of Dividend No. 38

NOTICE is hereby given that a dividend of 25c Canadian Currency per share has been declared, and that the same will be payable on or after the 15th day of September, 1933, in respect to the shares specified in any Bearer Share Warrants of the Company of the 1929 issue upon presentation and delivery of coupons No. 38 at:—

THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA,
King & Church Streets Branch,
Toronto, Canada.

The payment to Shareholders of record at the close of business on the 31st day of August, 1933, and whose shares are represented by registered Certificates of the 1929 issues, will be made by cheque, mailed from the offices of the Company on the 14th day of September, 1933.

The transfer books will be closed from the 1st day of September to the 15th day of September, 1933, inclusive, and no Bearer Share Warrants will be "split" during that period.

The Income War Tax Act of the Dominion of Canada having been amended, effective April 1st, 1933, to provide that a tax of 5% shall be imposed and deducted at the source on all dividends payable by Canadian debtors to non-residents of Canada, the above mentioned tax will be deducted from all dividend cheques mailed to non-resident shareholders and the Company's Bankers will deduct the 5% tax when paying coupons in or for account of non-resident shareholders. Ownership Certificates will be required by the paying Bankers in respect of all dividend coupons presented for payment by residents of Canada.

Shareholders resident in the United States are advised that a credit for the 5% Canadian tax withheld at source is allowable against the tax shown on their United States Federal Income Tax return. If it is desired to claim such credit the United States tax authorities require evidence of the deduction of said tax. In order to secure such proof Ownership Certificates (form No. 601) must be completed in duplicate and the bank cashing the coupon will endorse both copies with a certificate relative to the deduction and payment of 5% tax, and return one certificate to the shareholder. If forms No. 601 are not available at local United States banks they can be secured from the Company's office of the Royal Bank of Canada, Toronto.

By order of the Board.
J. R. CLARKE,
Secretary.

PIRATE SLUMP DROPS TEAM INTO SECOND DIVISION

SPORT COMMENT

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

Molla Has Say.
Old Stars Were Best.
Mrs. Moody's Retort.
Harness Racing Looks Up.
No Series For Dazzy.
Marberry's Feat.

RANDOM THOUGHTS ON SPORT TOPICS.

UNTIL THE ADVENT of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody as the queen of tennis, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory was the outstanding player in these United States. She won the National title eight times, a record Mrs. Moody tries to equal today. Contemporary with Mrs. Mallory was Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, who held sway on the European courts and was regarded as the world champion woman player until Mrs. Mallory won a set from her and then made her default in the National championship in 1922.

Mrs. Mallory

Mrs. Mallory has been in attendance at the National championships at Forest Hills during the past two weeks, and her comments on the play of the current crop of fair stars is interesting.

She doesn't think Mrs. Moody is through at 27. Mrs. Mallory herself was 34 when she won her last National championship. Rather, she believes the other players are just beginning to catch up with the California star, who, she thinks, would have had a much tougher time in her day—with such players as Mlle. Lenglen, Kitty McKane, Mary K. Browne, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Elizabeth Ryan around.

Mrs. Mallory handed Mrs. Moody the latter's last defeat back in 1926, the year she won her last National title. She thinks Betty Nuthall, of England, has the best chance of beating Mrs. Moody, which she almost did last Sunday, when she won the first set from her, but succumbed in the next two.

According to Mrs. Mallory, Mrs. Moody immediately goes on the defensive when she meets a player who is a hard hitter, and Miss Nuthall is all of that.

Mrs. Moody, when asked for a rebuttal to these remarks, said simply:

"Every era has its good points."

HARNESS RACING TO BECOME MORE AGGRESSIVE

David G. McDonald, local dean of harness racing men, sees a decided transformation in the sport just ahead. He is in sympathy with the idea recently advanced to open up the game by making every heat a race, prolonging the meetings and introducing more of a flair of showmanship into the programs.

In this connection, he makes an interesting point, saying:

"One of the main weaknesses in harness racing is that it always has been exclusively a 2-year-old sport. The horses are trained for early speed and you rarely ever hear of them after their first year. There is no real competition for the older horses. In the running sport it is entirely different. There a horse is an attraction as long as he remains sound and can win. The case of Equipoise, a 5-year-old, is a striking instance.

"A master promotion stroke for harness racing would have been a match race between Mary Reynolds and Brown Berry after their much discussed duel in the Hamiltonian Stake last week. Mary Reynolds won the first heat and Brown Berry the second. In the final heat, Brown Berry was leading when it stumbled within 100 yards of the wire and Mary Reynolds, which had been pocketed, got out into the clear and won.

"There was considerable talk of a fluke and many of the horsemen were not satisfied the better horse had won. The newspapers made much of the incident. Suppose a match race between the pair had been arranged with all of the consequent ballyhoo? No track would have been large enough to handle the crowd, and the betting play would have been enormous.

"Our sport has been one mainly for fun so far, but a new note is creeping in. We will not be so conservative from now on, and I think we are on our way to giving the public something it will want and will be glad to go for in a big way."

VANCE'S WORLD SERIES DREAM WANES

For 12 years now, Dazzy Vance has been in the National League, and he's never been in a world series, and, if the Cardinals don't bust in there this year, he fears he'll never make the grade. He knows he's not the fireball king he once was and that he has only another season or two at the most to come through. Once he was the league's highest-paid twirler; now he's lucky to be holding on.

Twice the Dazzler has been within reach of his goal. In 1924, he won 28 games and lost 6, but the Dodgers were nosed out when he lost two of his games in the final week of the season. In 1930, Bill Hallahan defeated Vance in the first game of a crucial series late in September and the Dodgers went down, never to rise again.

And now the years are fleeting . . . and how they are fleeting, as the Dazmarine wistfully wails his tragic lament—

"I've always wanted to play in a world series, just for the thrill of it."

MARBERRY PITCHES ONLY 88 BALLS IN GAME

When Firpo Marberry, veteran pitcher, formerly of the Senators, now of the Detroit Tigers, shut out the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-0, the other day and allowed only two hits, he pitched only 88 balls to 29 batsmen. He pitched only 55 balls in the first seven innings, in which no batter reached base, an average of eight pitches per inning. Jimmy Foxx spoiled his dream of a perfect game when he led off the eighth inning with a single. McNair, who followed him, also singled. Marberry used 33 pitches to retire the side in those last two innings. Finney walked in the ninth.

What does a pitcher think about when he has a perfect game in sight, or even a no-hit game? Here are Marberry's observations:

"After Foxx broke the charm, nothing else mattered; McNair's hit was anti-climax, and so was Finney's walk. Except for wanting to win the game, I didn't care how many of them hit once the chance to pitch a perfect game was gone. Such an opportunity comes once in a lifetime."

IF WE SHOULD GET A CODE IN FOOTBALL

Now about this NRA 40-hour code business. Suppose they applied it to college football players, to include their classes, practice periods and the games. They'd have to cut out the classes or along would come Saturday afternoon and the star halfback would be on his way to the goal line when he'd suddenly remember that his time was up and call it a week—and blooie!—there would go the ball game.

VIGNETTES OF THE SPORTS SCENE

The recalling of Ralph Birkofer from Toronto by the Pirates to bolster their pitching staff before it is too late is a popular move with the fans . . . If the Pirates are to help their pennant chances they must do it on the present Eastern trip . . . Johnny Fischer, of Cincinnati, only 21, is one of the [P]irates to win the National Amateur golf tournament in his home city next month . . . A real success story in baseball is that of Bud Parmelee, young Giant pitching star . . . The Minneapolis Club expected him back this year, but Manager Bill Terry decided to hold on to him, and his confidence was not misplaced.

The runaway race made by Columbus has killed interest in the American Association this year and virtually all of the clubs have suffered, and something will have to be done about the situation before another season rolls around . . . Paul Dean, pitching star of the Columbus team, is touted as an even better prospect than his illustrious brother, Dizzy, of the St. Louis Cardinals . . . Connie Mack is planning to go on a scouting trip in person next month to dig up talent to rebuild his Athletics for next season . . . A figure filbert (statistician to you, Roscoe) has estimated that there are at least 7,226,443 possible plays on the baseball field . . . Funny we can't think of the last three.

TENNIS QUEENS BATTLE FOR U. S. TITLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—For the eighth time since they left their high school classrooms out in California almost a decade ago to carve their careers in "big time" tennis, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs faced each other across the net today, this time for the biggest prize of all, the women's national championship.

Mrs. Moody, facing a familiar Forest Hills audience, was seeking her eighth national title, a mark that would tie the record set by Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory. Miss Jacobs, though defending the championship won a year ago, was in quest of her first victory over the statuesque Mrs. Moody, who qualified for the finals by beating Betty Nuthall.

SEEKS FIRST WIN

Never has Miss Jacobs been able to beat her staunchest rival. She's never won a set, so the odds today were all on Mrs. Moody's side, despite the ailing back that nearly kept her out of the tournament. In their only other clash for the championship, in 1928, Mrs. Moody was victorious, 6-2, 6-1. Mrs. Moody did not compete last year when Miss Jacobs finally captured the big cup.

Playing a steady, determined game, Miss Jacobs qualified for today's match by turning back Dorothy Round, of England, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2, in yesterday's semi-final, delayed four days by rain.

SCORES EASY VICTORY

There was nothing very spectacular about Miss Jacobs' triumph over Miss Round, on the face of a breeze that whipped the ball around and made all but the simplest shots a gamble. It bothered the British girl more than it did Helen, however.

Miss Round's usually steady game was missing, her drives flying all over the premises and into the net throughout the match.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A NOVICE—CHAMPION—One of the great surprises of the trapshooting season of 1931 was Forrest D. Saunders, of Minneapolis, who stepped out and took possession of the Minnesota Diamond Badge and also the State championship with a score of 198x200. The fact that this was contrived by a mere novice with only 10 weeks of actual gunning experience to his credit makes it one of the outstanding trapshooting victories on record.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Ten games from the top and September just around the corner, the Pirates today were not the best kind of company. The Pittsburgh athletes actually are in the second division and if their pitchers don't "go to pitching" soon, the club may not be able even to salvage a small piece of world series pie. If you land beneath fourth place you are out in the cold so far as the money prizes are concerned.

It's the same old story of inferior pitching. The batting and baserunning averages show that the Pirates are good enough to rank with the best, but the flingers throw too many home-run balls and with disastrous consequences.

BUCS TRIMMED TWICE

The series with the Giants will be completed this afternoon when another doubleheader will be staged. Aside from the fact that Ralph Birkofer is slated to pitch for the Pirates in one of the games, there is little to interest Pittsburghers in the dual fight. Hal Smith will twirl the other contest. Hal Schumacher and Carl Hubbell are likely to oppose the Buccos.

The Giants took both ends of yesterday's bargain bill as 25,000 fans looked on. The opening clash was a great fight that continued for 11 rounds, Bill Terry's homer in the eleventh deciding the issue. The scores of the two games were 8 to 5 and 6 to 2.

Fred Lindstrom struck two homers for the Pirates in the early fight, but no runners were on the sacks when Fred delivered his bold strokes. The Giants, on the other hand, made two circuit drives account for six tallies. So there you are.

Lindstrom made it possible for Larry French to carry a three-run lead into the fifth inning of the opener, but Larry grooved one for Mel Ott in the fifth and Ott uncorked a three-run homer to tie the score.

MEINE FAILS AGAIN

The Pirates put the first two runners on base in the eleventh, but Tony Piet could not sacrifice and there were no scores. A single and Steve Swetonic's high throw of a bunt put two Giants on the runways in the eleventh, and Terry struck a homer to win the game. Swetonic, after relieving French, pitched fine ball until the Terry incident. Fitzsimmons pitched 10 full innings, but was relieved by Luque after he had walked two runners in the last round.

Roy Parmelee held the Pirates to six hits in the nightcap, but the Giants shelled Heinie Meine off the hill in the third. Ott hit his second homer of the day in this inning. Chagnon, relieving Meine, worked three plus innings without allowing a hit. Swift finished.

The Giants scored five tallies off Meine, more than enough to win. The Buccos scored their two markers off Parmelee in the eighth.

Shortstop Floyd Vaughan was bothered with a stomach complaint and Tommy Thevenow played in the closing game.

Swim Meet Carded At Kennywood Park

A fancy diving exhibition and competitive events for men and women make up the program for the swimming meet to be staged in connection with the outing at Kennywood Park this afternoon. Mayor John S. Herron is to be an honored guest. The first event is scheduled for 4 p. m.

Duquesne Library and the Irene Kaufman Settlement, with large teams entered, are favored in the competitive events.

PAYNE VICTOR

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Holding the lead all the way, young Frank Payne, Jr., of Harrisburg, Pa., defeated his veteran opponent, Elmore D. Hotchkiss, Jr., of Richmond, 6 and 5, yesterday to win the fourteenth annual "Old White" golf championship.

Fight Results

At Allegheny Stadium—Primo Carnera defeated Frankie Edgren and Harold Mays in two-round exhibitions; Billy Holt defeated Phil Ross, 6 rounds; Patsy Hennigan won by technical knockout over Dominic Mancini, 5 rounds (bout stopped after fourth round); Andy Kosel defeated Young Dixon, 4 rounds; Johnny Durso defeated Heebie Thomas, 4 rounds; Mike Barto won by technical knockout over Johnny Birek, 3 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Lee Ramage knocked out Johnny Rousseau, 7 rounds.

At Long Branch—Sylvan Bass defeated Don Rizzo, 10 rounds.

At Paterson, N. J.—Stanley Kranenberg defeated Jimmy Phillips, 8 rounds; Jeff Burrone defeated Sammy Panico, 8 rounds.

At Camden, N. J.—Manuel Quintero defeated Young Joe Firpo, 8 rounds.

At West Springfield, Mass.—Jimmy Leto defeated Steve Halaiko, 10 rounds.

At Salt Lake City—Gorilla Jones and Hal Hoxwood drew, 10 rounds.

At Hollywood—Ceferino Garcia knocked out Eddie Frisco, 7 rounds.

At San Diego, Cal.—Billy Constance defeated Johnny Martinez, 8 rounds; Johnny Romero defeated Leo Kelly, 8 rounds.

Babcock Victor At Churchill Valley

Ray Babcock, former West Penn amateur champion, led a field of 170 golfers in the Churchill Valley Country Club's one-day amateur tournament yesterday, scoring a par-cracking 70 with two rounds of 35.

Babcock also win the low net honors, even though playing without a handicap. A. R. Kenney finished in second place with a 163-30—73.

Buck Griswold, Jr., finished second to Babcock for low gross honors with a 76.

ESPINOSA SCORES 62

AKRON, O., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Al Espinosa, professional at the swanky Portage Country Club gave par a terrific beating yesterday as he trimmed nine strokes from perfect figures in touring the 18 holes in 35-27—62.

CUBS STRENGTHEN GRASP ON THIRD PLACE

NATS INCREASE LEAD OVER YANKEES

Associated Press.

While the New York Giants and Boston Braves are matching victory strings in their pennant battle in the National League and the Pittsburgh Pirates are sinking deeper and deeper, the Chicago Cubs have strengthened their hold on third place.

They divided a double bill with the Phillies yesterday, while the fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals were idle. Philadelphia took the first game, 8 to 7, in 10 innings. The Cubs squared matters, however, with a 16-hit attack behind Lon Warneke in the nightcap, winning, 7 to 4.

HACK AT SECOND

The Brooklyn Dodgers conquered the Cincinnati Reds twice by 4-3 scores as Hack Wilson made his major league debut at second base due to injuries to Brooklyn infielders. The Dodgers got only two hits off Silas Johnson in the second game, but there were a home run by Wilson and a triple by Danny Taylor which proved sufficient, with the help of two passes and an error, to win.

Back in the midst of the fray after being shut out four straight days by Jupiter Pluvius, the New York Giants have demonstrated they can manufacture a winning streak of their own to match the onrush of the Boston Braves.

Meeting the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first of the numerous doubleheaders which many experts have predicted will prove their downfall, the Giants twice turned back the Corsairs yesterday. The double victory ran the Giants' winning streak to six games and increased their margin over the idle Braves to seven games.

NATS GAIN GROUND

The gap between Washington and New York in the American League widened to nine games with the Senators' 5-to-4 decision over the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians' 6-to-4 setback of the Yankees. The Senators' victory was their sixteenth in 18 games.

A three-run rally after two were out in the fourth and Joe Kuhel's home run in the fifth gave the Senators victory over their former teammate Fred Marberry. Heinie Manush stretched his consecutive hitting streak to 33 games.

The Indians came from behind with a five-run uprising, featured by Frank Pytlak's triple with two on in the eighth, to defeat the Yanks.

Bob Johnson hit two home runs, two singles and walked once to lead the Athletics to a 11-to-3 decision over the Browns. Gordon Rhodes pitched and batted the Red Sox to an 8-to-1 victory over the White Sox.

MRS. CORSON WINS SWIM

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Ruth Tower-Corson, who settled here several years ago with the avowed intention of winning the Canadian National Exhibition 10-mile marathon swim for women, finally has realized her ambition.

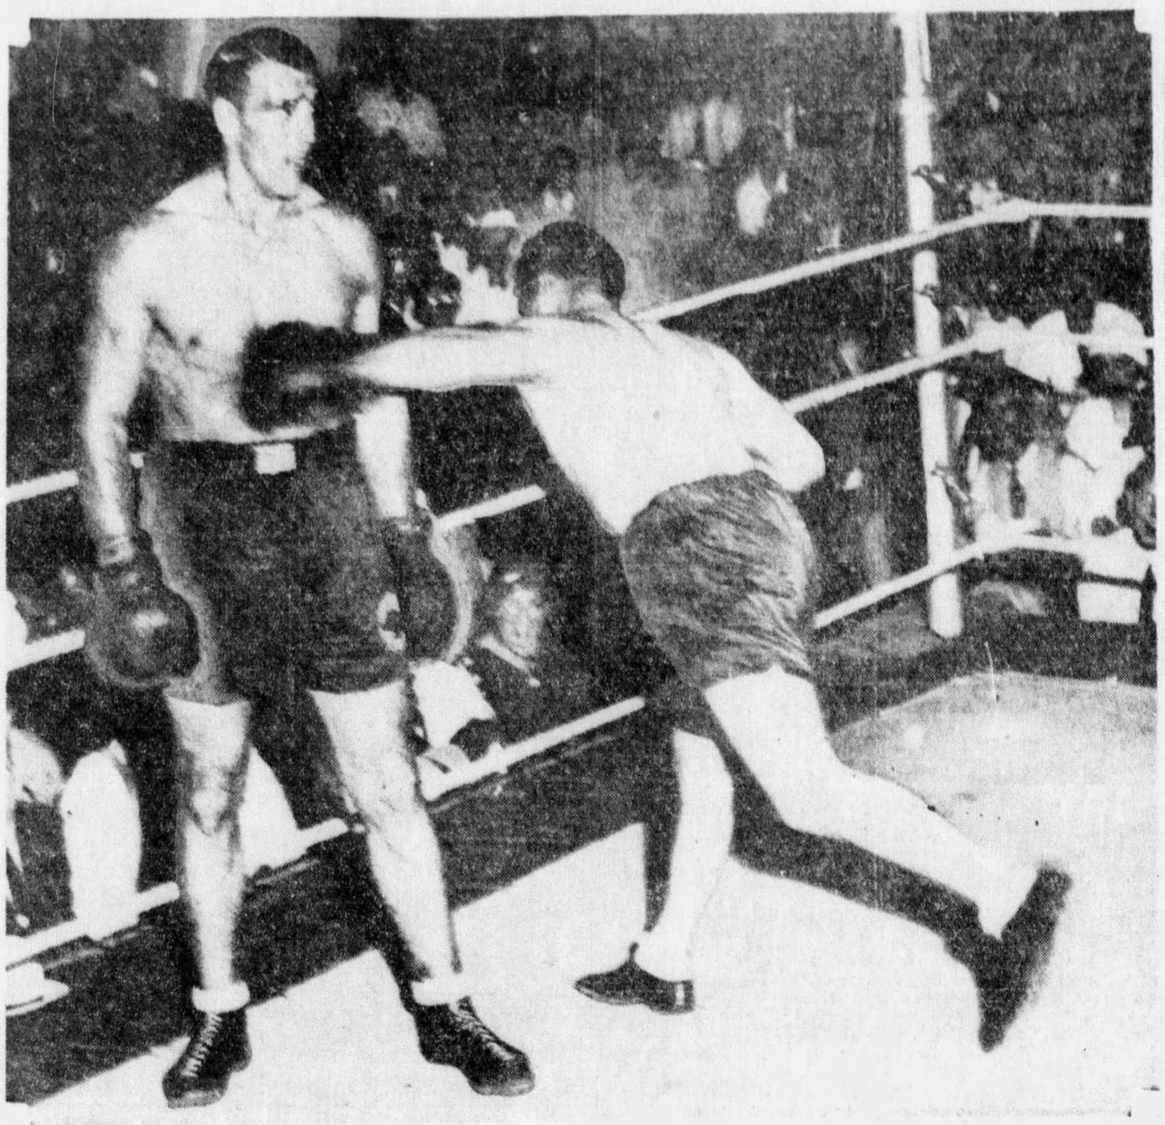
The titian-haired Toronto girl, who first competed here in 1928 as Ruth Tower, of Denver, outswam an international field of 36 in the 1933 marathon yesterday to earn first prize money of $3,000.

Mrs. Tower-Corson raced into the lead in the first few minutes of the race, set the pace all the rest of the way and defeated Evelyn Armstrong, of Detroit, by nearly three minutes.

Her time of 5 hours 28 minutes 10 seconds failed to approach the record of 4:56:44.4 set by Margaret Ravior Young, three-times winner of the grind. Mrs. Armstrong was clocked in 5:31:02.4, taking second place and $1,500 in cash.

The remaining money winners, with their times, were: Third, Dorothy Navelaiko, Glen Cove, N. Y., 5:37:23, $700; fourth, Leah Riley, Keansburg, N. J., 5:37:35, $500; fifth, May Looney, Warren, O., 5:46:50, $200; sixth, Lucy Spence, Toronto, 5:51:20, $100.

'Can I Take It?'—Primo Shows Fans How



HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION LETS SPAR MATES PUMMEL BODY IN EXHIBITION BOUTS HERE

The high spots of Primo Carnera's exhibition bouts with Frankie Edgren and Harold Mays, in the Allegheny Stadium, on the North Side, last night occurred when the heavyweight champion dropped both arms repeatedly and let his opponents batter his body. Here's Mays sending home a left and the champ is looking across the ring as unconcerned as you please. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

PENNSYLVANIA GUNNER WINS RICH TITLE

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Walter Beaver, 36, an electrician from Berwyn, Pa., stood on the 25-yard line and fired with amazing accuracy today to win the blue ribbon event of the trapshooting, the thirty-fourth annual Grand American Handicap.

Within the regulation 100 targets of the event, Beaver disposed of all rivals except young Ned Lilly, of Stanton, Mich., who tied him with a score of 98 hits. Lilly was defeated, however, in a 25-target shoot off.

WINS IN SHOOTOFF

In the extra firing, the Pennsylvanian went 25 straight while Lilly, who was shooting from 24 yards, missed twice.

Six shooters tied at 97, finishing next to Beaver and Lilly, and shot it out for the next four positions. Joe Histand, of Hillsboro, O., finally won third; C. O. Carothers, of Kenton, O., fourth; Morgan Davis, of Springfield, O., fifth, and Fred Harlow, of Newark, O., sixth.

Beaver was one of 32 from a field of 597 starters who succeeded in breaking the first 25 targets. At the halfway mark, the perfect shooters had dwindled to a pair, the ultimate winner and M. L. Conover, of Dayton, O.

At the three-quarters mark, Beaver had missed one, which tied him with Lily and Conover. Conover cracked wide open on his last event and missed six targets.

RICHER BY $1,400

As a result of the triumph, Beaver was enriched by $1,400, while approximately $9,600 was divided among the next 169 guns in the event. It was the fifth time Beaver had attended the Grand American, but he never threatened to win before.

It was the first time in the history of the trap shoot that the Grand has gone to a Pennsylvania marksman.

PRIMO GIVES FANS TREAT; HOLT WINS

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Primo Carnera demonstrated that he is a good showman in addition to being the heavyweight champion of the boxing world by the swell entertainment he put on before a good-sized gathering in the Allegheny Stadium last night.

The affair, a benefit for the needy of the community, featured Da Preem in an exhibition of four rounds that was full of lighter moments. Carnera pranced about like a 2-year-old and alternately socked his two spar mates or let them take belts at him. He dropped his hands to his sides against Frankie Edgren, his first foe, and also against Harold Mays, who went on with him next, and let them smash blows to his chest and stomach to give the fans an idea of his imperviousness to an ordinary punch.

CORRECTS HIS WEIGHT

He apologized for hitting Edgren an especially hard blow in their second round and he accidently struck Mays low in their first round. The former weighed 202 pounds and the latter 208, and Carnera himself corrected Announcer Ray Eberle when his weight was given as 265. He said it was only 261.

The fans were struck by the size of the giant Italian, his broad back and his speed in moving about for his weight, and also with his boxing ability, both offensively and defensively, and his pleasant disposition. After the bout Carnera presented the gloves used to Mayor John S. Herron, who occupied a ringside seat. He said they were a set he had worn in training for his fight with Jack Sharkey in which he won the title. Senator James J. Coyne also occupied a platform seat, and Councilman Harry Little and other political notables were at the ringside. Mayor Herron addressed the crowd through a loud speaker.

HOLT BEATS PHIL ROSS

Billy Holt, Homewood Negro, making his debut as a middleweight, battered his way to a victory over Phil Ross, of Chicago, in the six-round windup, which followed the exhibition. Ross made a game comeback after being floored twice for counts of three with right hands and getting up groggy each time, in the second round, but Holt was too rugged for him, and carried on to win. Billy, who has been campaigning as a welterweight, scaled 156¼ pounds, and his opponent was a pound heavier.

Patsy Hennigan, Clairton lightweight, won by a technical knockout over Dominic Mancini, of the North Side, when the latter's manager, Gus Camp, called a halt after the fourth round because of a cut on Mancini's right eye, received just as the bell ended that session. It was a close battle for three rounds, with Hennigan stepping out and scoring effectively in what proved to be the final round.

KOSEL, DURSO WIN

Andy Kosel, of Turtle Creek, easily defeated Young Dixon, Negro featherweight, of the Hill, in four rounds; Johnny Durso, of Oakland, won similarly over Heebie Thomas, East End Negro lightweight, and Mike Barto, of New Kensington, technically knocked out Johnny Birek, of Oakland, in the third round of the opener. Referee Joe Zivic stopping the bout after Birek got up from a count of nine.

Uncle Tom Wins Closing Circuit Pace

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—As another season of Grand Circuit racing at the Illinois State Fair was concluded yesterday, Uncle Tom, son of the mighty Col. Armstrong, won all three heats of the 2:15 pace.

In the final heat he stepped the distance in 2:01.

Next week the Grand Circuit will be idle. The following week, however, racing will be resumed at the Indian State Fair at Indianapolis.

SMITH LEADER IN OPEN GOLF

OLYMPIA FIELDS, Ill., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Forty-three years old but swinging his clubs with the same brillancy that made him one of the game's greatest masters and stylists, MacDonald Smith, of Nashville, Tenn., was hot in pursuit of his third Western open golf championship at Olympia Fields today.

Competing against a record-breaking field of 220 starters, at least a score of them prominent figures in the professional and amateur golfing world, the methodical Scot surged in front of his rivals by shooting a course, equalling 68 over the number four layout yesterday.

Mac's lead ranged from one to four strokes as the second 18-hole struggle of the 72-hole medal fight opened. One shot behind him was Abe Espinosa, tiny Castillian from Chicago, who shot a 69 for his first round on the number one course; four behind him among those who toured the number four course was Joe Paletti, professional of a public driving range in Chicago. Because of the large number of entries, the field was split up with half playing the fourth course and the others shooting over number one.

Methodical golf, primed with dead pitch shots, gave Mac his 68 yesterday.

The other leaders, all tied at 73, represented a list of prominent shooters with virtual unknowns. Shooting 73s on No. 4 yesterday were Willie Goggin, of San Francisco, finalist of the recent National Professional championship; Harry Cooper, Chicago; D. Sullivan, Chicago; M. Miller, Nobelsville, Ind.; Al Huske, Elgin, Ill., and Gunnar Nelson, Rockford, Ill.

Equaling the same score on No. 1 were Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del.; Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis, runner-up in the 1933 National Open and Bob MacDonald and Ben Hogan, Chicago.

U. S. DOUBLES STARS WIN

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The strongest foreign invasion the national doubles tennis tourney has experienced since 1928 appeared safely under control today when the third and fourth seeded American teams upset international rivals in the split-up quarter finals play at Longwood.

George Lott and Lester Stoefen, who teamed for the first time at Newport last week, were so well organized they gained a straight set victory over the leading foreign threat, Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath, of Australia, 6-2, 7-5, 7-5, in the upper half match yesterday. Frank X. Shields and Frankie Parker stood off the late spurt of Frederick J. Perry and Frank H. D. Wilde to drive those crack Britishers out of the title quest by a 6-2, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5 margin.

The exits of the vanquished teams left only one set of foreigners in the running, Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, the Australian Davis Cup team, whose chances of topping Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, 1931 champions and finalists for the past three years, in today's quarter-finals play appeared extremely slim.

The defending titlists, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, will plan an all-Californian quarter-finals against Jack Tidball and Gene Mako, the young Los Angelians and the victors will have a full day of rest before engaging yesterday's winners in Monday's semi-final play.

TOURNEY NEAR TITLE ROUND

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

An octet of racquet stars have gained the quarter-final round in the annual Stanton Heights Golf Club's invitation tennis tournament, which has been in progress, at the pleasure of the weather, this week.

In yesterday's engagements, E. A. Knothe, Leonard Reed, T. A. Robinson and G. V. Henderson gained the quarter-finals. Knothe defeated W. J. Clardy, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4; Reed toppled Frank McClintock, 1-6, 6-2, 16-14; Robinson eliminated V. K. Glidden, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3, and Henderson put out McCook Reed, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

Today Henderson takes on Robinson; William O'Loughlin meets Reed; Frank Broida faces Knothe and Wolfe plays Edgar Alcorn.

At South Park, the fair weather enabled the parks tournament to advance to the third round, with a host of matches in both the men's and women's competition being run off. The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES

Second round—Rosanna Dugan and Viola Volper defeated Rina Donnelly and Dot Sullivan, 6-3, 1-6, 6-0.

OUIMET'S GOLF

By FRANCIS OUIMET

Former National Amateur and Open Golf Champion

I was considerably amused in reading a statement to the effect that Gene Sarazen was a "washed-up golfer," because, knowing Gene as I think I do, I felt quite certain it would give him the incentive necessary to go out and win the P. G. A. championship, which he did so handsomely.

Nothing will stir a great player on to his best game better than a derogatory remark concerning his game. If you care to call it an insulting remark, then I am of the opinion the proper way of waking up a golfer to his form is to insult him beforehand. Gene is the type who must carry a grudge to play his best, and in this instance the thought that he was through as a serious contender in a championship was sufficient to bring out his best game.

Francis Ouimet

Jesse Guilford finds it difficult to get excited over a golf competition. The fellow who won our National Amateur championship in 1921 still is a great golfer, but he prefers to look on the lighter side of the game and therefore his success in national tournaments have not begun to picture his ability in any way whatsoever. Last summer, Guilford entered the Amateur championship and went to Baltimore to qualify. In friendly matches around home he had been playing well, but after 27 holes of mediocrce play, it was apparent that unless he improved tremendously he would find himself among the list of those who failed to qualify.

SPURRING GUILFORD ON

I never have seen anyone hit a golf ball quite so long as Jesse did, and with the advantage so gained, it was a shame to see him waste simple shots here and there.

A friend who followed his play became disgusted with his lackadaisical attitude and informed him that if he expected to qualify he must play those nine holes in three under par to succeed. That was all he needed, an incentive. He continued his great driving and followed it up with flag-splitting irons. Putts that had been started in the general direction of the hole were carefully studied and two or three dropped.

Coming to the eighteenth he was one under par. He hit a long tee shot that ended in the rough a yard or two from where I was standing. Not knowing a thing about his score and while he was waiting to play to the green I ventured a question:

"How are you going?"

He replied:

"I must hole this shot to qualify."

There was a crash and a bang as his heavy mashie niblic tore through the deep rough and the ball arched beautifully, landed on the green, and, barely missing the flagstaff, stopped three feet beyond. He got a 3, which put him two below par for the nine holes, and, whereas, he thought he had failed, he qualified by the thin margin of one stroke. Had he been permitted to continue with his erratic play, I am sure he would have missed, but the old incentive was the thing that fired the spark.

Which reminds me of the day I tied Vardon and Ray at Brookline 20 years ago. The tenth hole was an easy par 3, and, having used up 43 strokes in a driving rain, I could ill afford to give anything away on the final nine. Trying to be ultra careful, I missed the green with my pitch and then took three putts for a wretched 5 on a hole I hoped to get in 2 or at the worst 3. As I walked drearily toward the eleventh tee between a lane of people I distinctly heard an individual say:

"Come on, Joe, let's go back to the clubhouse and get dry, Francis has blown so high he will never come down."

It made me mad. I realized I had made a mess of an easy hole, but the manner in which the galleryite spoke struck me as indicating I had lost all control of myself and my nerves and if I did nothing else I was going to convince that person it was merely one of those things that occur to anybody who plays golf and that in no sense did it mean I was done for. That remark really awakened in me a desire to prove to that individual I had some fight left and while there was still a chance left I was going to make the best of it.

I kept on digging and working and finally was rewarded with a lucky putt or two which offset the mistakes of the tenth hole and in the end gave me a tie. Who the person was I do not know, but I have always considered him to be a real friend for arousing me as he did. I suppose the queer nature of my makeup was pricked sufficiently to give me the drive that apparently had been lying dormant, and, having talked with losers, I am convinced fellows like Sarazen, Guilford, Evans and others whom I could name who are just as skillful as ever require such a tonic to spur them on.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—With the 1933 pennant race all over but the clouting, Uncle Nicholas raises his trusty telescope to peer into 1934. And I will say that the current Yankees won't give us any more trouble next year than a team from the Old Soldiers' Home.

Nick Altrock

But an outfit that will bear a heap o' inspection then is the A's. Connie Mack has a lot of smart youngsters in that lineup, but this is practically their kindergarten year. In another annum they will be just a bunch of tough schoolboys, and I am warning you to be looking out for them then.

Oh, by the way, do you remember six weeks ago Al Simmons awarded the pennant to the Yanks, conceded our Washington club might be runners-up and seized third place in the name of the White Sox? At that time I gave Al the bird. Well, now I am shipping him a carload of eagles and a crate of razzberries. As a prophet, Al is a total loss.

SEITZ PACER SCORES WIN

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 26.—Stepping the final heat in 2:11½, Glenville, a fast roan stallion, owned by George Seitz, of Swissvale, and piloted by McMillen, won the 3-year-old pace stake, feature event of the closing day's program of harness horse racing at the Butler County fair yesterday. The Swissvale horse won in straight heats.

Taylor Volo, owned by J. R. Taylor, of Washington, Pa., won the first event, the 3-year-old trot, and Coffee, Bancroft Farm entry, took the 2-year-old trot. The 2-year-old pace was won by Morley Scott.

GREEN TROJANS WIN CONTEST

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Victorious again in the state American Legion drum and bugle competition, the Green Trojan Corps from Greensburg Post No. 85, will represent Pennsylvania in the national contest at Chicago in October.

Greensburg retained its class "A" laurels by one-tenth of a point last night, scoring an even 93 to the 92.9 of John Wesley Cross Post, Lansdowne. Tarentum was third with 89.45.

In the class "B" competition first place went to Memorial Post, No. 448, of Duquesne, which scored 85.25 points. This title, too, was decided by a fraction, Walter A. Frank Post, McAdoo having 84.65, while third place went to George N. Althouse Post, No. 390, Norristown, with 84.05.

The Legion and its auxiliary elected officers yesterday. The Legion chose Otto F. Messner, Lancaster, commander; A. B. Kerr, Philadelphia, William J. Klein, Northumberland, and J. Ernest Isherwood, Waynesburg, vice commanders. The Rev. Nicholas J. Woloshuk, Johnstown, was chosen departmental chaplain.

Mrs. E. R. Beadle, of Shamokin, was re-elected president by the Auxiliary.

VICTIM OF JULY ACCIDENT DIES

Blood poisoning from a laceration suffered when he was struck by an automobile caused the death last night of George B. Dillis, 57, of 7334 Formosa way, in Pittsburgh Hospital, according to a coroner's report.

He was struck at Frankstown avenue and Sterrett street, July 5.

Suffering a probable fracture of the skull when struck by an automobile near her home last night, Mildred Culhane, 8, of 25 Almeda street, was in Children's Hospital today.

Police are searching for a hit-and-run driver who injured Florence Vogel, 7, of 8527 Persian street, Penn Township, last night. She was crossing Frankstown avenue at Standard street when the car struck her and failed to stop. She suffered brush burns and cuts and was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Crossing Carson street, near South Twenty-seventh street, Luther Brooke, 41, of 136 Zara street, suffered a brain concussion when struck by an automobile, according to a police report. He was taken to South Side Hospital.

TRAIN JOY RIDE ENDS IN DEATH

International News Service.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 26.—One of three victims of a freight train joyride which ended in tragedy, Stanley Janowski, 20, of 3704 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, died today in Connellsville Hospital.

A companion, Adam Kulikowski, 19, of Thirty-sixth street and Smallman way, was in the same hospital, unconscious and expected to die. The third injured member of the party, Alex Zukowski, 22, of Thirty-sixth street, is in McKeesport Hospital, also in a critical condition.

The three youths, with Louis Cuba, 20, of 3809 Mineral way, Pittsburgh, hopped a Baltimore and Ohio freight train in Pittsburgh yesterday for a trip to Connellsville City Hall, where they expected to "bum" a meal and then journey back by freight.

All except Cuba were sitting atop a box car when the train passed under the Bessemer Bridge near Pittsburgh and were struck by the trestle. Cuba is being held for Baltimore and Ohio police.

NEEDY PUPILS' PLIGHT TOLD

Nearly 15,000 children in Pittsburgh will be unable to return to school in September unless they are provided with shoes and clothing, according to Mrs. Pearl Braden, organizer of the Save-the-Children Clubs, speaking at a mass meeting last night in West Park, North Side.

Dr. B. J. Hoyde, of the University of Pittsburgh and the League for Social Justice; A. L. Wills, director of the Juvenile Detention Home; Mrs. Bessie Kann Sack, chairman of the legislative committee of the American Association of University Women, and Robert Lieberman, chairman of the Unemployed Citizens' League, were other speakers.

20th Ward Group Indorses Slate

A meeting of the district chairmen of the Twentieth Ward Independent Republican Organization last night indorsed the following candidates—Thomas P. Trimble, for Orphans Court; Harry H. Rowand, Ralph H. Smith and Alexander P. Lindsay, for Common Pleas Court; Frank Piekarski and Benjamin Lencher, for County Court; Lois McBride, for Juvenile Court; Robert K. Cochrane for sheriff, and Harry Manion, for jury commissioner.

Blue Shirt March To Defy De Valera

FERMOY, Irish Free State, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Again defying President Eamonn De Valera's government, Gen. Owen O'Duffy announced today his Blue Shirts will hold their scheduled demonstration tomorrow at Beal Na Bach, County Cork, where Michael Collins was slain.

The minister of justice had issued an order forbidding the demonstration.

R. A. Foley Speaks At Two Gatherings

Robert A. Foley, candidate for Jury Commissioner, spoke at St. Paul's A. M. E. Zion Church, Carnegie, and at the Mackrell headquarters, Wabash avenue, West End, Thursday night.

BEAVER PARRIES KIDNAP CHARGE

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Aug. 26.—District Attorney A. B. de Castrique, of Beaver County, declares that "if the state furnishes sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction, we will co-operate."

His comment followed the urging by State Attorney General William A. Schnader, in his report to Gov. Pinchot on the abduction of 46 Negroes from Beaver County to the West Virginia line, that the perpetrators be prosecuted as kidnapers.

De Castrique was asked:

"Does that mean you will submit the evidence to the grand jury, as Schnader urged?"

He replied:

"Well, I didn't say that. But we'll co-operate. We already have. They sent three investigators in here and we helped them. We had three meetings. If they send me the opinion and evidence we'll co-operate. I haven't gotten anything yet."

"Will you ask for the evidence?"

"Well, I guess not. I expect to get the stuff as a matter of course."

POPEYE'S PARTY DRAWS THRONG

Old Popeye has always had a turbulent life but seldom has he had a more exciting day than that at Kennywood Park yesterday. It was his birthday and he gave the biggest party of the kind ever held in the Pittsburgh area.

He had invited nearly 10,000 boys and girls to be his guests, and personally greeted nearly all of them. Then he served the birthday cake, made by Rhea's and weighing 250 pounds. Of course, there was a stampede when he began to cut it. Popeye presided at the distribution, but several women in the party volunteered to help him.

Children were provided with strips of tickets for the rides and kept the devices busy until late at night, many of the youngsters being accompanied by their parents.

Popeye was impersonated by Milton Black, of Tarentum, who has been drafted to play the part of this old belligerent in the movies. The birthday party was given under the auspices of the Sun-Telegraph because Popeye, as everyone knows, is one of the favorites on the comic page of this newspaper.

Brady McSwigan, manager of Kennywood, said:

"It was one of the finest parties we have had this year and as a whole included a mighty classy lot of youngsters."

2 SLAIN, 2 SHOT IN 'ALKY' WAR

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—An alcohol war is blamed by police for a shooting last night in which two men were killed and two pedestrians wounded by stray bullets.

The men killed, James, (Big Jim) Callea, 38, and his brother, Samuel, 36, were shot down as they approached a drink dispensary, said to have been operated by them. Witnesses said both were wounded in the first volley of rifle and revolver fire, but ran down the street with one of their assailants chasing them and firing at them as they ran.

As "Big Jim" reached a street corner a man stepped out of a sedan and fired at him with a rifle, witnesses said.

The pedestrians, June Bauder, 14, high school student, and Joseph Pariso, 41, were wounded by the rifle fire.

Deputy Police Commissioner William R. Connolly today said he had uncovered evidence showing that the Callea brothers were two of the largest alcohol distillery operators in Western and Central New York.

19TH WARD MINE BUILDING OK'D

The United States Coal and Supply Company has been granted the right to build a new fan house, trestle and power house at its coal mine, Wenzel avenue, Ninteenth Ward, by the Board of Adjustment.

Several residents of the neighborhood protested to Council and the adjustment board against the proposed construction.

W. C. Rice and Eugene L. Connelly, members of the board, ruled that the old fan and switch house at the mine be razed and ordered other changes before granting the permit.

Three Men Seized In Gambling Raid

Constable John S. Ridge, continuing a "cleanup" of the Fourth Ward, today had arrested three men after a raid upon an alleged gambling establishment at 3703 Forbes street.

The trio, Saul Cohen, Kenneth McLaughlin and John Markey, arrested on information made before Justice of the Peace George Blair, of Wilkinsburg, were released in $1,000 bond each for hearing, September 6.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

Poletzki's horror was too active to be concealed within his own brain. Cavanaugh, watching him, felt it exude. It was more than fear—it was terror. A horror of the noose—a psychic revulsion that clawed like a loathsome animal.

"It's an interesting thing to see them hang a man," said Cavanaugh coldly. "They take that hemp rope and draw it around his neck first. They draw it 10 times tighter than I choked you. It cuts into the skin. You can't breathe—you struggle for breath, you strangle—"

Poletzki slumped against the wall. His knees were helpless and he began slowly to collapse and slide to the floor. Cavanaugh sprang forward and pulled him up.

"Pull yourself together, man!" he said roughly. "You're not on the gallows yet. I'm just explaining to you how it's going to feel."

This, Cavanaugh decided, was the most brutal task he had ever faced. Poor devil! Yet the man was a double-murderer.

Now, if ever, was the chance to wring the confession from his bloodless lips. Despite his natural kindliness, Cavanaugh steeled himself for the gruesome task.

"Let me get my hands on your throat again—I'll show you——"

CHANCE TO ESCAPE

Poletzki gathered his strength and tried to dart aside, but he was hopelessly cornered. In a dry voice—arid as the rustle of autumn leaves—he sounded a wordless cry of despair.

"There's only one way you can escape it!" Cavanaugh said curtly. "If you want to be a stubborn fool they'll hang you by the neck till you're dead. It's a dog's death—the worst on earth. I'm offering you the chance to escape. Come! Why don't you take your chance like a man? Tell the truth. You took a shot at me and the bullet accidentally hit Annette Santos. It's your only chance to escape that tight rope around your neck!"

Poletzki looked at Cavanaugh, the fear of death already beginning to glaze his dull eyes. With an effort he conquered the weakness and cramp in his legs, and managed to stand away from the wall. Nevertheless, he was tottering and on the verge of collapsing to the floor.

"How the devil do I know," he said in a creaking voice, "that you'll stick by me?"

AGREES TO HELP

Cavanaugh took one deep breath before answering. He stood there straight and erect, the conqueror in a battle of mind against mind—a war in which not only his own happiness but that of Leni Luneska was the prize of victory.

"You can trust me, Poletzki," he said with iron coldness, "because it's either that—or the rope. No matter what happens, I'm turning you over to the police. If you don't trust me, you're a cinch to hang. I'm giving you my word—you'll have the best lawyer that money can buy. I'm giving you my word—and it's up to you to decide whether it's good or not."

In the shattered eyes of the beaten thug there began to gleam a feeble, flickering light of hope.

"I can't stand it," he said, his tone wobbling. "That rope business—you can't breath when it gets you. If you'll stick by me—if you'll save me from it—I'll do any darn thing you want——"

Poletzki reeled toward the divan and crumpled, his face hid in the hollow of his hands.

* * *

Leni's embarrassment as she struggled in Gerstenfield's arms was terrible. She was not afraid; but she was ashamed of the situation. The unclouded sanity of her normal self despised and pitied Gerstenfield in the same instant.

With an excess of energy she fought loose from his violence. The strength in her taut, elastic body was surprising, yet it gave her a sense of degradation to be forced into this kind of a struggle.

"You idiot!" she cried in a bitter voice. "You crazy idiot—get out!"

GERSTENFIELD QUIETED

The palm of her hand was under his chin and she pushed with all her might. She was not alarmed—She had but to scream to bring servants. Gerstenfield's thin body lacked the vigor to combat her aroused determination. The sense of his own weakness swept through him. He began to tremble. What strength he had evaporated. His head was swimming in wide circles.

"Get up and get out of here!"

Leni was standing on the floor, her face flushed and her hair disheveled. To his own surprise, Gerstenfield found he was sitting on the side of the bed.

The whole world, but a moment before, had seemed in flames; now a deadly coldness began to freeze in every nerve. He knew where he was—knew that he was sitting contemptibly on the side of a woman's bed—that he was an object of her scorn and his own as well.

"Sorry," said Gerstenfield in a low, hoarse voice. "I've not been well lately——"

No vestige remained of his former tone of harsh command. Internally the man had less light and heat than a burned-out bulb.

Leni's anger was drowned in contempt.

"Whether you're sorry or not doesn't matter," she said curtly. "Get out of my house—and never come near me as long as you live."

He lifted his leaden body to his feet. Gerstenfield was a menance no longer. Never again would he rule anyone with fear. The studio dictator of old was dead as surely as though he were already in his grave.

Without a word, he moved out of the room and out of Leni's life with slow and sagging steps. As Leni closed the door of her room she had the feeling that this was final—that she had closed it forever against everything connected with motion pictures.

The house felt strangely deserted. Soon there would be strange tenant occupying it. A muscle in her shoulder ached from the struggle with Gerstenfield. Hollywood—considering everything—had been good to her; She was lucky that she was escaping with nothing worse than a strained shoulder—physically.

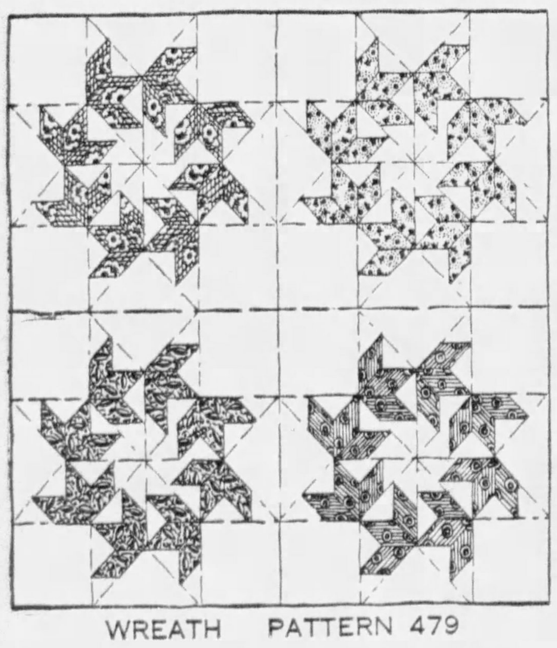
The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Women who are in love are blessed with a radiance that is akin to beauty. Sarah Bernhardt confessed in her old age that she kept youthful because she was always in love. It's a wonderful formula. All the pleasant emotions help keep the face in form. All the mean ones wreck it. Jealousy, anger, petulance, envy are the enemies of good looks. Not alone because they invite unpleasing expressions, but because they have a depressing effect upon the physical mechanism. They chill the skin, interfere with digestion, disturb sleep and so furrow the countenance that in course of time it will look like an old walnut. That statement ought to scare the surly ones and the fretters.

Position during sleep is something to think about, if the beauty quester would keep the back straight and young, chest developed, legs of normal proportions. Curling up into a tangle interferes with normal breathing, slows up circulation, makes for placid, lazy muscles. Lie on the back, with body stretched full length. Or on one side with one knee drawn up. Whatever you do, don't sleep with a hand under your cheek; makes wrinkles.

PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



WREATH PATTERN 479

Can't you imagine how lovely the Wreath would be if one wreath were done in scraps of blue, another made in patches of rose, another in scraps of green, the color varying in each block? The white background harmonizes the different colors. This popular old-time pattern, of course, is equally handsome when it is done in two materials and the quiltmaker of days gone by impartially favored both arrangements.

Pattern 479 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Signed .....
Date of Birth.....Address.....
School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR PATROL Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

We want NEWS, fellows!

Don't forget, this Mail Box is for the news of the Junior Patrol, and we are depending on the captains and the members to tell us what goes on, how you are helping others, and what good times you are planning.

Just the other day we were reading the accident report for Pittsburgh, fellows. The records show that there have been 15 children killed by automobiles so far this year. There were only 10 killed last year. This shows, probably, that children this year are not as careful as they were last year. Most people who get killed do so when they try to cross the street without looking, or when they step out from behind a street car or truck into a lane of traffic going the other way.

We have just been thinking, one of the best things all the Junior Patrol clubs and members could do would be to teach all their friends to be careful. Captains in the meetings should tell their members about the dangers on the streets, and see to it that all their members learn the rules of safety.

Do you have a hobby, fellows? We had a letter from a member the other day asking about collecting stamps. Every Sunday, the Sun-Telegraph publishes a stamp column for those interested in collecting stamps. And there are hundreds of other interesting and educational hobbies. You can collect leaves, plants, coins, rocks, or flowers. But no matter what you collect, be sure that you know what it is all about, and know the names and the history of all your specimens. We should be glad to hear about any of the interesting hobbies any of our members have.

Snuggins

Now we have a fine letter full of news from Capt. Hazel Miller, of 139 Blackhawk street, Swissvale. Listen:

"I am sending in three more pledges as I am getting more members in my club. We hold our meeting every Wednesday. After each meeting we play games. August 2 we had a picnic down in Frick woods. We had races and gave out different things to the winners. No person got two articles, so that gave another person a chance to get something.

"We are going to have a play Friday, August 25 (that was yesterday), and one of our members is going to sing, some dance, some tell jokes, etc.

"I am very glad to say that I have gotten my armband. I lost my pin and I would be very pleased if you could send me one of the same number, C 872. One of my members lost her pin also. Would you please send her one of the same number—B 417."

Your patrol seems to be having a lot of fun, Hazel, and we are glad that you are having such a good time. And here's hoping too that your play was a great success. The best way to get a new pin is to send in another pledge slip with your name and address. We are afraid that it is difficult to get a pin with your old number on it, but we will do our best.

Ruth Ann Davis and Grace Duffy, of 95 Evans avenue, Ingram, write that they are going to start a new club. They send four pledges altogether. That's fine start, girls, and you only need six more pledges now to start a full-fledged Junior Patrol Club. When you are all organized let us know and we will send the captain a beautiful armband. Be sure to pick a nice name for your club.

Now here's a note from Capt.-Elect Matthew Bigliardi, of 821 Lookout avenue, Charleroi, Pa. He sends a roll of 11 members for his new club and pledges for all those who do not already belong. Fine—and let us know how you get along when you start having regular meetings.

Robert Craft, of 3552 McNeil Place, Pittsburgh, sends 10 pledges and asks for an armband. Have you been elected a captain, Robert? Please let us know right away, and if you have been elected captain at a regular meeting of your club, we will send you an armband right away.

WASHINGTON — Appearing suddenly from behind a filing cabinet, Gussipi G. Doakes today brought tears to the eyes of Gen. Johnson with his impassioned plea that the restaurant owners' code contain provisions doing away with unfair competition. "I think," said Mr. Doakes, "the code should put an immediate stop to the vicious practices of those who take the bread out of their competitors' mouths by serving more than one cracker with a bowl of soup."

Our Set Sets the Pace

We know the world is always anxious to hear about the doings of our set:

The Swankingdales are surf boarding in the Dismal Swamp. Mrs. Swankingdale was the daughter of Rosie O'Grady by permission of the copyright owners.

Miss Eadie Hippswider is taking the waters at the spa. Miss Hippswider has announced her engagement to a concert violinist with a sprained wrist.

Members of the Stale Repartee Club will meet in an abandoned boiler this evening to talk things over, drink tea and rap their friends who made money in Wall street.

The shellackers have opened their roof bungalow on top of a one story garage in the wholesale clothing district.

Mrs. Bippadoo and her lovely daughter Jinkie are back from another postponed trip to Europe.

The occupants of Red Nose Villa are willing to sublease their summer home in Alaska for the winter.

The Handicap Committee on Fancy Vests has listed the writer as a seven-button man. His athletic career almost closed last week when he was chosen goal tender in a stone fight.

Mrs. Dinty Goobax quit contract bridge when she ran out of aces and kings.

Mr. and Mrs. Pinkink are hoping that Judge Booktosser will send their sons to Harvard or Princeton. Wherever they go, the judge promises it will take them four years to graduate.

Nuttsy Bollivar opened his safety deposit box last week to see how the white mice were doing. Nuttsy is as fine a polo player as ever fell off a porch rocker.

Nippers Van Crock didn't put his yacht in the water this summer. His friends are enjoying the boating season falling overboard in dry dock.

That just about washes up our set. We should have added a little soap and stirred with a wire-haired brush.

Cheating Made Harder

The Voting Machine Inspector Announcement Is a Welcome Piece of News.

The County Commissioners have found what promises to be a preventive of certain forms of cheating at the polls. They announce that they have the legal authority to appoint a "machine inspector" for service in every precinct where more than one voting machine is used and they intend to exercise the authority. This is welcome news.

The districts in which fraud has been most flagrant in previous elections are the very ones that will require machine inspectors, and as the inspectors need not be appointed from among residents of the districts in which they are to serve, the County Commissioners have the opportunity to install and should install at the voting places disinterested persons who will guard against cheating by any faction.

With the primary election less than a month distant, some of the officeholders have little or no time or the consideration of anything else but politics. It is gratifying to note that this is not true of Mayor John S. Herron and the County Commissioners. They have been working hard in the interest of the general public on matters that have no connection with politics.

Mayor Herron did a praiseworthy thing in calling the conference of mayors and burgesses of towns in the Tri-State District to promote the flood control project. The hearty support given by the visitors to the plan for building 10 storage reservoirs on the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela is encouraging, and the committee that has been appointed to urge speedy action by the Government should make a good impression.

The County Commissioners are working hard in preparation for the county fair which opens at South Park next Thursday, and it promises to be a first-class show. Serving primarily as an exhibition of Allegheny County's agricultural and livestock resources, which are more extensive than many Pittsburghers appreciate, it will also provide entertainment for persons not interested in farming.

The long list of county institutions, departments, boards and bureaus that are to have exhibits at the fair suggests that it will afford an excellent opportunity to make the people acquainted with the workings of the county government. We expect it will tax the ingenuity of some of the bureaus to prepare interesting exhibits. For example, what will the Law Department show?

Well, it may be that the Law Department will be able to present something that will be intensely interesting to a considerable section of the population, if not to all. One of the beauties of the fair is that there will be something for everybody. If educational exhibits do not appeal, there will be plenty of pure entertainment—and free at that.

County fairs have come in for criticism because of the operation of paddle wheels and other gambling devices and the presentation of immoral shows on the "Midway." The Commonwealth had to warn several years ago that it would withhold its subsidy from counties that tolerated these things at their fairs. But the Allegheny County fair is to be free not only from anything of that sort, but from almost every kind of commercialism.

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham, whose term of office will expire next Thursday, when he will be succeeded by H. S. Dumbauld of Uniontown, quits with a good record. Attaches of the United States District Court say no Federal prosecutor here has ever been called upon to handle a greater number of cases. During Graham's term there have been convictions in 4,278 criminal cases, involving 12,000 defendants.

A great many of the cases in the United States Court have, of course, been liquor cases, and, with the repeal of prohibition, which probably is not more than a few months distant, the new Federal attorney will not have to give so much time to this class of prosecutions. With liquor requiring less attention, Dumbauld will be able to give more time to matters of greater importance.

Graham's administration will long be remembered because of the Federal grand jury's investigation of fraud in the congressional election of last November, an investigation which resulted in the indictment of more than 100 politicians and election officials. The investigation was instigated by the Roosevelt administration at Washington, and it is a foregone conclusion that Dumbauld will continue this work.

Wilkinsburg is to be congratulated on the outlook for an early opening of the new bank that is to take over the assets of the closed First National. The Comptroller of the Currency has approved the plan of the depositors' committee, and assurance is given that a new institution, to be known as the First National Bank at Wilkinsburg, will soon open its doors.

There is no lack of evidence of improvement in business. Significant is the report which came from Harrisburg this week concerning gasoline tax collections for June. They showed an increase of 1.72 per cent over the figures for the same month last year. This was the first time in more than a year that monthly collections exceeded the figures for the corresponding month of the year before.

Industrial inactivity brought a great decrease in industrial accidents in Pennsylvania. The Department of Labor and Industry deserves commendation for the steps it is taking to prevent a rise in the accident rate now that industry is reviving. Alert employers will utilize the service that Secretary Charlotte E. Carr offers to guard workmen from injury.

Eugene Bowen's bitter experience with the heiress to the Hostetter Bitters millions is the subject of a lively article in the American Weekly, the great magazine that will be distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Another interesting article deals with the home life and pastimes of the ancient Egyptians.

Sam Crabtree, an old friend of the family, is to take Tillie the Toiler to a dance at the Cloud Bank Club. But while waiting for Tillie to get ready he sits down with her mother to look at some old snapshots. The humorous developments that ensue are pictured by Russ Westover in Puck, the Comic Weekly section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. And there are more than a dozen pages of other funnies.

"Altogether!"

By Nelson Harding

Now, altogether, with a will Drive hard against that door until
It's smashed and broken open wide,
Then seize the foes that lurk inside.

United efforts made by all
Will bring about that stronghold's fall;
Its doors cannot resist for long
If hearts are stout and arms are strong.

Man's "Coral Reef"

Of course, there are germs in kisses. You can catch almost anything by kissing too freely and casually—except a husband.

Lots of times, a man would confess his transgression to a woman if he only knew which one of them she had found out and WANTED him to confess.

There is no reward for returning a lost, strayed or stolen husband—not even in Heaven.

The honeymoon is over when a man can sit down calmly and enjoy a hearty dinner with a woman with whom he's not on speaking terms.

There is only two kinds of perfectly faultless husbands—the dead and the deadly.

The trouble with most of the questions the minister asks in the marriage-service, is that they seem to have nothing at all to do with the vital experiment you are facing.

* * *

No matter what sort of face a girl is born with, these days, by the time she finishes putting on the improvements it is something that Nature never dreamed of.

* * *

When they marry after a three-year courtship, all the girl's friends think it's because she "gave in at last"—and all the man's friends know it's because he "couldn't hold out any longer."

Nothing makes a girl who "sympathizes" with a married man so indignant as to discover that he is still running around with his wife on off evenings.

Once in every man's life a woman occupies his whole heart. If she moves out, he usually divides it into little compartments and keeps it filled with transients.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

How Frail Is Beauty

How frail a thing is beauty
To touch the heart-strings so!
The swirl of dancing shadows,
The willows bending low,
The jade and emerald water,
The far-flung, breaking wave;
How frail a thing is beauty,
That yet a life can save!

O, beauty, let me clasp you
And hold you close always,
Walk with me in the splendor
Of morning's golden haze;
Reveal your still reflection
Upon the sleeping lake
And greet me with the twilight
When starry hosts awake!

A gleam, a hint, a promise,
A sunset's fleeting gold;
How frail a thing is beauty
That yet a life can mold!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—In the manner of Arnold Bennett's journals: M. and I motoring early had a tire blow out near a largish house. A fellow came up and, looking at the car, inquired "Abandoned?" I said "I don't know." He went on.

We took breakfast at a tavern overlooking the sea at Sheepshead Bay. The only other patron was a red faced fittyish man, who kept jerking out a biscuit sized watch, and said many silly things to the serving maid, etc. etc. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday I wrote 7,000 words which I cut to 5,000.

Afterward the car still being unfixed we sat on a veranda and listened to some amazingly dull talk by four old jossers. One said his son was afflicted with a cussedness. But I did not hear the rest for the petrol man came, drunk. We came back to The City by tram.

In the mail was a letter from a lady in Vicksburg, Miss., writing for the first time on a typewriter. Down in the corner she affixed, in the custom of the amanuensis, EWL—1 finger. It reminded me to send for Mr. Tase, the typewriter repairer. The "h" in my machine is missing. Sounding very Cockneyish.

* * *

Corey Ford telephoned today he was burlesquing my column in Vanity Fair and would I be offended? I told him decidedly not. The truth is I was immeasurably flattered. His travesties are searing but never vicious. I had an idea for a magazine piece while awake last night. That people who never eat or drink between meals are seldom fat. I have collated about 50 notable instances. Superb weather.

* * *

This afternoon I wrote a skit about the wireless for a journal, rather goodish but not deeply imagined. Syntax often bad. Will Lengel here briefly on way to train. He remained quiet reading a poem book of Keats while I typed. Then suddenly for about 10 minutes he was brilliant and walked out without good-bye. He blushes.

* * *

Before taking a cold shower I had a longish talk with M. We are about of a mind to buy a picture we both enjoy to hang in the big room. It is by Goodhap in the style of our mutually admired Poussin. But the painter little known.

* * *

Tea. Lot of ladies with a certain chic. Frank and Eleanor Grant Sheridan whom I have not seen in years. I remembered her debut in Cincinnati. Frank and his brother both artists. Not twins but look alike. F. draws covers for the Saturday Evening Post. A lady from San Francisco, whose name eludes me, spoke flatteringly of Cobbie. Somebody came through the room drinking beer out of tin pipkin. A feckless fool. I sat awhile with Bert Lytell's lovely Grace. Russell Patterson wondrously prinked in a pink shirt. Cars in the enclosure all higgledy-piggledy. We walked home.

* * *

Walking I have a continuous torrent of ideas and spread-eagle fancies. But they are gone at my desk. But sometimes I think to tell M. and she invariably remembers. In the midst of a stroll I may say in course of conversation extraneously "cafe with dog menu" and next morning M. will have jotted it on my pad.

* * *

We drove to East 63d street for the Lisle Bells and motored toward Larchmont. I fell to talking about a house I would like to build some day, probably in Gallipolis. On a turn of the road I saw a replica of the identical house. It was like a mirage. But it had been deserted, weeds grown high and windows knocked in by boys. We learned from an agent the owner was Mr. Givney who married an actress.

* * *

M. suggested Ben Riley's for dinner, a nice thought. We arrived at 8:10. The starter addressed me by name. I affected it was usual but that was deception. Dinner under moonlighty birches. Tuneful orchestra in white duck. Colored fountains going. I had a dish of the house, jumbo frog legs with creamed potatoes. The others, lobster salad. Addition including meal for chauffeur and tip $18. Steeper than I expected.

* * *

We left the Bells at the Herald-Tribune with his copy for a book review page. I thirsted and we stopped at Hick's, taking chocolate flavored sodas. Up the avenue a crowd. A policeman chucking rowdies out of a taxi. We thought we saw Hamish and Amie McLauren at Hick's. But they weren't. Went to bed and slept with astonishing soundness. Soiree tranquille!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You want life. You want life furiously, feverishly—

Not just Money . . . not just Position . . . not just Things . . . but life, itself. The "abundance of life." Its fragrance and flavor . . . its mystery and adventure—

Ever since you were a child, you've wanted that abundance, haven't you? Demanded it. Searched for it. Yet never found it.

Still you're sure that the secret is waiting somewhere. But where? Where can you find the secret of a full life . . . of a life that never grows cramped and meaningless?

You can find the secret of that life in an old book, in a very simple statement—

"HE WHO WILL SAVE HIS LIFE SHALL LOSE IT . . . BUT HE WHO WILL LOSE HIS LIFE—SHALL SAVE IT."

A strange statement. At first you seem to understand it—then you don't understand it at all.

"He who will save his life—"

That's easy enough to comprehend. You want to save your life—and enlarge it. You want to fill your life with glory and glamor. Isn't that a natural, a sensible desire? Of course it is. Then why should that old text go on to say—

"He who will save his life—SHALL LOSE IT"—?

Why should you lose your life because you want to save it? Why should you be punished for wanting to make the most of yourself?

You won't be punished for wanting to make the most of yourself. You should TRY to make the most of yourself—But you'll get nowhere if you try to make the most of yourself IN THE WRONG WAY.

You'll never make the most of yourself by trying to SAVE YOUR LIFE FOR YOURSELF . . . By TRYING TO LIVE IN YOURSELF AND FOR YOURSELF.

If you want to GET life you'll have to GIVE it . . .

If you want to LIVE life you'll have to LOSE IT . . .

You'll have to lose your own little personal plan . . . your own little limited interests . . . and spread out into the larger plans . . . into the larger interests.

Just what does that mean? Look around you, at other people, and you'll see what that means.

Who are the strong, the satisfied people? Who are the powerful and popular people? Who are the people with that "full life" which you desire for yourself?

Are they the people who only talk about themselves and their families . . . who have no thoughts beyond their own kitchens or offices? Are they the people who never read . . . never take part in any civic movements . . . who are bored if you start discussing politics or current events?

Or are they the people who can talk on any subject . . . who are interested in all people . . . who throw their lives into every new cause?

You know the answer.

Those who have "saved" their lives, who have kept their lives within their original cramped boundaries . . . those people have really LOST their lives. They have actually no more life than a bunch of potted geraniums.

But those who have "lost" their lives . . . those who have broken the tight mold of their personal experience, and spread out into the larger existence of the world . . . they have saved their lives, and enriched them.

You want life . . . furiously, feverishly?

Want the abundance of life . . . its mystery and adventure?

Then SAVE your life by LOSING it.

The Human Side of the News

The Hobbies of Well-Known Men—Too Lively A Sense of Humor Dangerous For Statesmen—A Famous Hoax

By EDWIN C. HILL

ALWAYS INTERESTING are the fads and fancies of noted men. Some of these fads and fancies are in keeping with their public character and reputation, others startlingly at variance. In the first category are the well-known men who made a hobby of absolute privacy.

Myron C. Taylor goes to the head of this class, but others who shrank from any form of publicity—who would never permit newspapermen to quote them—are the Morgans, the late J. Pierpont and the present J. P.; the late George F. Baker, of the First National Bank, and Edward S. Harkness, who gave so many millions to Harvard and to Yale to establish the house plan of college life.

One had to stretch one's gaze to pick these dim figures out of the background of humanity. Others cherish little, intimate hobbies which seem to bring them closer to the general run of humanity. Calvin Coolidge on the harmonica could give excellent imitations of railroad whistles. Henry Ford is fond of old-fashioned jigs and barn dance music. Winston Spencer Churchill, British statesman, is an amateur bricklayer, paints pictures and collects old hats.

Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Philadelphia publisher, insists on new tunes at all his parties. Edward T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia banker, who was a drummer in the Civil War, sometimes plays the drum for his guests. Otto Kahn is particularly fond of small parties and entertains with the finest talent money can buy. The late President Harding, like former Mayor Walker, of New York, made a hobby of expensive and well-cut clothing, and Harding's favorite piece of music was "La Paloma."

The late Speaker Longworth played violin solos for his friends. Vice President John N. Garner of Texas, is fond of playing poker with his cronies, and is one of the best poker players in America. He won a postoffice at poker from Speaker Cannon a good many years ago. One of the late President Wilson's hobbies was the number 13. He believed it was his lucky number.

* * *

Sense of Humor Not Always An Asset

OTHERS, LIKE Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, make a hobby of witty stories and pungent sayings. Lewis, one of the ablest men in the country, has a great sense of humor, but he's smart enough to mask it in politics. He knows that a sense of humor has ruined the careers of a good many men.

Take the immortal Depew. Mr. Depew once said himself that his habit of joking and telling funny stories probably prevented his nomination for President in 1892. But the classic example was really the late Thomas B. Reed, of Maine—Speaker Reed—Czar Reed, as they called him.

He was a man of tremendous force and sterling personality and he ruled the House with an iron hand. Probably he would have made a great President, this Maine Yank, one after the Grover Cleveland pattern. But it was not so to be. He wise-cracked himself out of serious consideration. Time after time he emitted some searingly witty comment which made the country laugh but which kept him branded as a joker.

A Congressman named Springer closed a speech with this quotation:

"I would rather be right than be President."

Reed spoke up instantly:

"The gentleman from Illinois needn't worry, he'll never be either."

No, it doesn't pay in politics to be a funny man. The only President I ever knew that had much of a sense of humor was Roosevelt. Mr. Cleveland certainly wasn't a joker. McKinley was amiable but essentially serious. Wilson told a story well but his mind trended to the serious side of life. Taft had a sense of fun rather than a sense of humor, and there's a big difference.

* * *

Brian G. Hughes, King of Jokers

THE KING of practical jokers was Brian G. Hughes, gone now to his reward. He was a New York paper box manufacturer and a savings bank president. From the time that this Canadian-born boy landed in New York and improved his fortune by catching sparrows in Central Park, painting them yellow and selling them as canaries, until he finally foreswore all practical joking, life was one continual opportunity for sly hoaxes.

His greatest triumph was the time he put over an alley cat on the Madison Square Garden Cat Show. By chance, Mr. Hughes had rescued a common, alley cat in Chatham Square. As a result of an injury to its spine, the cat held its head high, in a fixed attitude of aristocratic hauteur. This attitude gave the joker his inspiration. He entered the plebian waif in the national show.

He put it in a beautiful gilded cage. He draped the cage with orchids. He labeled the cat "Nicodemus, a Dublin brindle," and wrote a long and utterly imaginary pedigree which took the feline tramp clear back to ancient Persia. Every day of the show, liveried footmen, sent by Hughes, served ice cream and breast of chicken to Nicodemus, posing haughtily upon his cushion of crimson velvet. And hanging upon the cage was a sign which, tersely informed the world that Nicodemus was valued at $1,000.

And Nicodemus got the blue ribbon! A committee of the best cat experts in America gave first prize to this alley cat, and when the truth came out, the whole U. S. A. howled with glee.

Reassurance Needed

President Should Speak to Clear Doubts Stirred by Tactics of NRA.

By B. C. FORBES

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT time and time again has acted and spoken with profoundly beneficial effect.

Immediately he resumes duty at the White House, he should make a talk to the nation.

He could thereby clear away much of the regrettable uncertainty which has been caused by the words and deeds of officials, mostly immature, irresponsible, inexperienced, rather radical theorists whose ego has been swollen by a greater sense of power than they could ever have hoped to attain.

Bluntly, industry and business have become alarmed over the total indifference on the part of NRA and subordinates to the vitally important matter of profits.

Men of affairs, employers, fillers of thousands of pay envelopes who readily responded to President Roosevelt's call for higher wages and shorter working hours, are becoming frightened lest conditions become such that they will find it impossible to keep up greatly increased outgoes unless it be made possible for them to increase income.

LABOR, realizing that some of its most ardently partisan union leaders have reached the seats of the mighty in Washington, has sometimes lately—perhaps naturally—manifested a disposition to resort to coercion rather than co-operation with employers, to strike rather than to conciliate.

Again, far more is heard from Washington officials who find themselves unexpectedly clothed with "a little brief authority" about the penalties which will be inflicted for raising prices than is heard about the necessity for establishing prices sufficient to permit of paying higher wages for fewer hours work.

President Roosevelt could aid infinitely in restoring confidence among the payers of wages were he again to talk in his characteristically lucid, frank, sincere vein, emphasizing that he realizes that unless the new deal makes the earning of reasonable profits practicable, the whole recovery scheme will collapse.

"Ye canna tak' the breiks aff a Hielan'man"—you cannot take trousers off a Highlander, the Scots explain, because he wears only kilts.

No employer can fill pay envelopes from an empty treasury. Before money can be paid out, it must first be taken in.

THIS elementary truth, which should be plain to every school boy, apparently is being overlooked by certain Washington factotums, with consequences which are undermining confidence far more than is being publicly revealed, so hesitant are business leaders to express their convictions at this time when even the mildest question or criticism of anything dictated at Washington is accounted treason.

President Roosevelt, won't you please dispel the rising doubts and distrust which, if further fanned, may cause entrepreneurs, owners of businesses, responsible executives to institute contraction that would bring the return of depression? All that is necessary is a declaration by you that you understand how essential it is to hold the balance even; how essential some modicum of profit is to prosperity—and to ability to pay the gigantic taxes now necessary to the maintenance of government.

Such a calming, heartening pronouncement is needed as much in the interest of workers as in the interest of those who employ workers.

Neither the employers nor the employes of this country can prosper if either be prostrated.
